Federal Grand Jury Indicts Pendergast

O'Malley Also Accused Of Tax Evasion

KANSAS CITY, April 7.—Tom J. Pendergast, director of Kansas City's Democratic organization and a power in Missouri politics, was indicted today by a federal grand jury on a charge of "willfully, knowingly, unlawfully and feloniously attempting to evade and defeat the income tax law."

At the same time U. S. District Attorney Maurice M. Milligan pronounced "solved," the mystery of the distribution of $447,000 that changed hands before the compromise of a state insurance rate case under which policy holders received only 20 per cent of some $9,500,000 impounded premiums.

The indictment, climaxing a series of federal and state assaults on Pendergast's political stronghold, charged he received $315,000 out of the settlement fund and failed to report it for income taxes.

Indicted with Pendergast was R. E. O'Malley, state insurance superintendent at the time the compromise was effected. O'Malley was charged with evading payment of tax on $62,000.

Release on Bond

Judge Merrill E. Otis, who received the grand jury's report in the absence of Judge Albert L. Reeves, set bond of $10,000 each, returnable April 24.

A solemn appearing Pendergast was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Charles H. Thompson and was released on bond.

His portly figure clad in a blue suit, light overcoat and slightly battered felt hat, Pendergast was fingerprinted in the United States marshal's office.

One of Pendergast's attorneys stepped forward to assist in removing his overcoat and the political leader protested:

"Aw leave me alone. I can take off my own coat. There is nothing the matter with me."

His hands trembled visibly as he submitted them for fingerprinting.

O'Malley was reported to be visiting a son in Baltimore. James E. Burke, a Pendergast attorney, had said previously both men would surrender and it would be unnecessary to serve the capias warrants which were issued.

There were two counts in each indictment. O'Malley was accused of paying no taxes for 1935 and 1936, while it was asserted he received $22,500 in 1935 and $40,000 in 1936. The funds distributed before the compromise was made May 18, 1936? were collected by the late Charles R. Street of Chicago. Of this $100,500 was obtained in Chicago and $347,000 collected from fire insurance companies involved in the rate case.

The indictment charged pendergast reported a net income of $87,840 for the calendar year 1936 and paid tax of $25,481 while his real net income was $347,365 upon which $195,682 was owed.

It charged he paid only $464 on a reported 1935 income of $14,811, while it was alleged he owed a $15,567 tax on a net income of $69,811.

One of the items of income listed by the government for 1936 was $24,485 for Pendergast's racing stable.

Maurice M. Milligan, U. S. district attorney who directed the investigation, made a formal statement saying "the insurance case is solved."

He added that the indictments were of a preliminary character and that the grand jury would proceed in further investigations that might disclose other startling things in the next few weeks.

Rejects Assistance

KANSAS CITY, April 7.—Tom Pendergast peered over the tops of rimless spectacles today in grandfatherly fashion as he was fingerprinted and arraigned on a federal indictment charging he failed to pay income taxes on $315,000.

He shrugged aside an offer of assistance in removing his overcoat.

Pendergast was questioned for the records as he was fingerprinted in the United States marshal's office.

Practical Advice On News Values

B. P. W. C. Guest Speaker Explains Paper's Viewpoint

Miss Docia Karell, news reporter and one of the editorial writers on the Springfield, Mo., News-Leader addressed members of the Sedalia Business and Professional Women's club, and a number of guests at a dinner meeting Thursday night at Kueck's Tavern.

Her talk, from the standpoint of a practical newspaper writer, was most interesting, and her hearers listened attentively as she told them what to do and what not to do to obtain the most favorable newspaper publicity.

Miss Karell stressed the value of cooperating with the newspapers at all times, because whether you want your name in the paper, or whether you don't, there are going to be times when it must be in. If a person features in the news, she said, and the person involved refuses to see the reporter, or to permit someone to make a statement for them, naturally the paper can only get one side of the story, which is unfair to the paper, and also unfair to the individual.

She mentioned the importance of news articles from a news value stating that one or two feature stories a year on the worthwhile activities of some organization are worth much more to that organization than small notices of meeting dates regularly.

View On Crime Stories

The speaker referred to the fact that often when a person is arrested, or some unfavorable incident occurs, their friends never seemed to think the act itself was so bad, the bad part is that it gets in the newspaper. The newspaper, she said, doesn't commit the crime, it simply records it.

Publicity, she termed a medium between news and advertising, and the nearer it is to a news story the better the publicity.

Miss Karell was presented by Miss Catherine Sweet, chairman of the publicity, who was in charge

Some Damage From Freeze

With a drop in temperature to 27 degrees above zero during the night, and a rise of only thirty-two at 7 o'clock, farmers believe considerable damage has been done to the early fruit and some to the oats by freeze and frost. It was a still cold, they report, the kind that is damaging.

County Agent J. U. Morris states peaches and pears, some in the bloom stage, may have suffered. Legumes that are just starting growth probably will also show damage.

Revealed Boys Caused Fire In Building

Investigation Of Blaze Leads To Finding Loot

Investigation of the fire which broke out in the vacant Steeple's Produce building at 705 East Third street, by L. L. Lawrence of the M-K-T railroad to determine whether it had started from any railroad equipment, led to the discovery of loot which had been stolen from the Hurlbut Printing Co., last Sunday night.

Mr. Lawrence upon finding some "things which looked suspicious," notified the police and officers likewise joined in the investigation. An old trunk with considerable articles in it, was found at the place.

Boys Rounded Up

Rounding up of boys who had been playing about the building resulted in a group ranging in ages from 9 years up to about 15, having some knowledge of the articles found, but only two admitted they had robbed the printing company.

The boys told of playing in the building and had started a fire in an old stove. They departed the building, and about 6:45 in the evening the blaze was discovered.

Damage of nearly $500 resulted to the building.

A nearby railroad tank car, filled with gasoline, was moved by a switch engine, in case the fire got out of control.

Two lines of hose were laid by the fire companies. The fire, which caught in the southwest corner of the building and made considerable headway, was then brought under control.

The building belongs to the Union Savings Bank and is not covered by insurance.

Dismissal Of WPA Supervisor

JOPLIN, Mo., April 7.—Dismissal of William R. Garrison, chairman of the Newton county Democratic committee, as WPA supervisor for that county was confirmed today at WPA area offices here as an investigation into WPA activities by federal agents was disclosed.

Also discharged since the investigation was begun was John Garrison, a WPA superintendent and son of the supervisor, and Clem Bumgarner, Newton county WPA foreman.

The federal investigators, William C. Gage and Charles Stewart, referred questioners to their chief in Washington, explaining that they are not permitted to make statements for publication or disclose information obtained in their inquiry.

Some High Spots In The Inquiry On Pendergast

KANSAS CITY, April 7—(AP)—Today's federal grand jury indictment of T. J. "Boss" Pendergast climaxed a series of events which have kept the Pendergast organization on the defensive since it reached what seemed to be its peak power in the 1936 elections.

Hardly had the victory celebrations of sweeps in county, state and nation died when Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves, a Republican, dealt the first blow.

Admonishing a federal grand jury to "reach for all — even those in high places," Judge Reeves opened a widespread investigation of vote frauds in Kansas City.

In two years, 278 persons — many of them Pendergast organization members — were indicted. Of those 63 were convicted, 36 pleaded guilty, 160 pleaded no defense, throwing themselves on the court's mercy. Eighteen cases were dismissed. One defendant, who has been ill, awaits trial.

Heavy fines were assessed. Prison sentences ranged up to five years. Mrs. Frances Ryan, Pendergast's only woman Democratic ward leader, began recently a three year vote fraud sentence at Alderson, W. Va.

In the midst of the vote fraud trials, the term of their prosecutor, Maurice M. Milligan, a Democratic U. S. district attorney, expired. Senator Harry S. Truman, a close Pendergast ally, sought to block his reappointment. He was rebuffed by President Roosevelt, Missouri's other senator, Bennett Champ Clark, and an overwhelming majority of the senate.

Dissension Undercurrent

An undercurrent of dissension between Pendergast and Missouri's Democratic governor, Lloyd C. Stark, came to the surface October 19, 1937, with the ouster by Stark of R. E. O'Malley, Pendergast supported superintendent of insurance.

A few days later Stark named a new Kansas City election board. It included, as a Democrat, a Pendergast foe, Edgar Shook, whom Pendergast termed a "Republican."

The tide turned Pendergast's way again in the Kansas City municipal elections in the spring of 1938. His organization, while winning by reduced majorities, gained one seat on the city council, leaving that body with only one non-organization man.

Fresh from that victory, Pendergast turned his forces to another state campaign to back Jas. V. Billings in a Democratic supreme court primary race against Stark-appointed Judge James M. Douglass. With Stark in the field as an active campaigner, Douglass won a smashing victory at the

Three Hours Of Devotion Held

There was a calmness over the city for three hours this afternoon and business activities were lessened while hundreds of persons attended church services from 12 noon until three o'clock, commemorating the three hours on which Jesus Christ hung on the cross. At three o'clock the hour on which His head dropped in death the services were concluded.

Good Friday is one of the most solemn and most widely observed in the Christian world. It has been preceded by a season of fasting and penance, all leading to the mournful services of the crucifixion, followed by the happy feast of the resurrection, known to the world as Easter.

Many who could not attend the entire three services dropped in the churches where services were held for at least a few minutes. The ministers affiliated with the Ministerial Alliance held union services at Calvary Episcopal church, and the two Catholic churches, St. Patrick's and Sacred Heart, each had the three hour services.

Still Ask More For WPA Fund

Use Of G-Men In Inquiry If Their Aid Is Needed

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Asserting that there is "no sign of economy at Washington except where distressed men and women are asking for food and shelter," Senator Borah (R-Idaho) announced today that he intended to vote for a $150,000,000 emergency WPA appropriation.

"I am told an agreement has been reached which satisfied the administration," Borah told reporters. "I am not voting for or against the administration. I am voting for millions of American men, women and children."

Supporters of an amendment by Senator Pepper (D-Fla) to increase to $150,000,000 the $100,000,000 appropriation approved previously by the senate appropriations committee and the house, hailed Borah's aid.

Democratic leaers, confronted by prolonged speechmaking on the relief bill, scheduled a Saturday session in an effort to reach a vote this week.

Aministration followers, anti-administration Democrats and Republicans generally had agreed on the $100,000,000 allotment—the sum approved by the house—in an effort to avoid controversy and speed senate action.

A half dozen senators agreed today to speak in behalf of Pepper's proposal, however, and Senator Barkley (D-Ky), the majority leader, said he would call the senate to meet tomorrow to pass the bill.

Senator Mead (D-NY) led for speechmaking for the Pepper forces today, reiterating his contention of yesterday that government efforts to economize between 1930 and 1932 had brought on a disastrous deflation.

Pepper Is Insistent

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Despite agreement of senate Democratic leaders to a cut in Presihouse-approved $100,000,000 relief request, a bloc of New Deal senators refused today to abandon its fight for the full sum.

When the senate took up the house-approved $10,000,000 relief bill yesterday, both Republican and Democratic leaders predicted a vote by nightfall. But after four hour of oratory in behalf of the full $150,000,000, Senator Pepper (D-Fla), leader of the New Deal bloc, claimed his side had picked up at least a half dozen votes.

"I'm inclined to think we have as many as 35 votes now," Pepper said. "And I believe as more

Eleven Cars Of Train Ablaze

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., April 7.—(AP)—Eleven cars of a Rock Island freight train caught fire this morning in a derailment at Hickory Creek, Mo., about 90 miles northeast of Kansas City. No one was reported injured.

Reports reaching railroad officials here were that 13 cars of a 75-car train were derailed. Fire broke out in two cars of gasoline and one of kerosene and spread to all but two of the derailed cars. Contents of the other burned cars was not learned. Firemen from Trenton drove to the scene but were handicapped by a lack of water. Telegraph lines in Hickory Creek were burned through.

Rock Island officials said traffic would be routed temporarily over the Milwaukee railroad's tracks from Seymour, Ia., to Polo, Mo.

U. S. Problems On Invasion

Hull Confers With President On Situation

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Secretary Hull telephoned President Roosevelt at Warm Springs, Ga., today and talked to him at great length on the situation created by Italy's invasion of Albania.

Hull communicated to the President all the information the state department had received on the Italo-Albanian situation from a half dozen European capitals.

The American problems involved are these:

Is Mussolini's march into Albania a violation of the Kellogg anti-war pact and should it therefore be denounced as such by this government?

How will American diplomatic representation at Tirana, Albania, be affected, if Italy makes an actual protectorate of the little country?

The United States has a legation at Tirana in charge of Hugh S. Grant and Albania has a legation here in charge of Faik Konitza.

Minister Konitza has an appointment to see Secretary Hull this afternoon.

Since legations are maintained only with independent countries, the status of the legation at Tirana might have to be changed.

Officials were at a loss in finding the exact reason to explain Mussolini's invasion of Albania. These, however, were among the hypothesis:

1. Mussolini may be seeking to prevent Yugoslavia and the south Balkan nations from joining the "stop Hitler" movement.

2. He may have been having financial and political difficulties with King Zog.

3. He might have desired to show his own people a new acquisition for Italy at a time when his partner in the Rome-Berlin axis, Hitler, has made a series of acquisitions.

4. Hitler and Mussolini might have sought to throw Europe into confusion at a moment when Britain was seeking to line up a number of nations in a "stop Hitler" movement.

Generally, diplomatic observers here do not believe that the incident will have grave repercussions on Europe.

Konitza told reporters that what Mussolini had in mind was an Italian military occupation of Albania.

He asked:

"Is it honorable for an army of 6,000,000 men to march against an army of 50,000?"

Italians, he said, have sought to give the impression that their army was welcomed into Albania by the Albanians, "but the opposite is the case."

Seek Wife Of Bandit Shot Down

Benny Dickson Slain Thursday By G-Men

By The Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, April 7.—Federal agents who shot down Bandit Benny Dickson as he grabbed for his guns searched all known hideouts today for his pretty, blonde gun-girl wife, Estelle.

"We got Dickson, we'll get her," commented one.

"Estelle Dickson is wanted just as badly as her husband was," declared Gerald B. Norris, chief of the St. Louis office of the federal bureau of investigation.

The Dicksons—always traveling together and heavily armed—were wanted for three kidnapings, two bank robberies and car theft.

Officers expressed the belief Dickson's slim, 17-year-old wife still is in this area. She also is an expert shot and at one time her skill with a .22 rifle and revolver overshadowed that of her husband.

A lock of blonde hair, probably Estelle's was in the desperado's pocket last night when two bullets ripped the fight and the life out of him.

Dickson apparently attempted to justify his life of crime with poetry.

In his wallet was found a page of closely typewritten, amateurish poetry. The free verse, apparently written by Dickson, explained his peculiar philosophy of accomplishing good things "for life" by doing harm.

"In the eyes of men, I am not just, and I should not live. But in your eyes, O life, I see justification. You have taught me that my path is right, if I am true to you," it read.

He promised in the verse to put future time into study and developing into a higher type of man, and "to help others become higher."

Carrie Hitler Picture

A worn newspaper photograph of Adolph Hitler also was in Dickson's wallet.

Other belongings in his pockets included spare cartridges, $52 in cash and a tin badge stamped "deputy sheriff." The latter apparently was to explain his guns if questioned.

In killing Dickson, federal agents ended a hunt that had extended over Missouri, Kansas, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, South Dakota and adjoining states.

The Dicksons started their trail of crime after he attacked a driver's license official in Topeka, Kas., in July, 1937.

Bank holdups charged to them were the $2,187 robbery of the Corn Exchange Bank of Elkton, S. D., on Aug. 25, 1938, and of the Northwest Security National Bank of Brookings, S. D., the following December 1 where they got $17,592.

Dickson, who had been having brushes with the law since he was 17, also was wanted for the kidnaping of Henry Metty and Claude Minnis near Leonidas, Mich., on Nov. 28, 1938. The desperado was charged with taking them across the state line into Griffith, Ind., and stealing their automobile.

Estelle's rifle shooting was credited with disabling a pursuing car in the wild running gunfight that accompanied the Leonidas kidnaping. This was the only known time Benney and Estelle were wounded.

Dies Without Talking

Dickson was shot to death here last night by special agents of the federal bureau of investigation as he grabbed for two heavy revolvers in his pockets.

Italian Troops Start Invasion of Albania

Claim Heavy Losses On The Forces Landing

Towns Reported Burning After Bombardment

TIRANA, Albania, April 7.—(AP)—An Italian army of 25,000 men gained possession of at least three towns in a bitterly contested invasion of Albania today.

Official Albanian reports said Italians, who used warplanes and warship guns for heavy shelling, were repulsed four times with heavy losses.

It was disclosed, however, that the Italians had gained Durazzo, Santi Quaranta and San Giovanni Di Merua. San Giovannia and Valona were reported afire.

The Italians were said to have advanced inland ten miles from San Giovanni, as the nation awaited an Italian reply to a peace offer believed to have been sent by King Zog.

What Zog proposed was not fully known, but it was believed he was willing to meet Premier Mussolini's demands for increased economic and possibly military cooperation—if the country were permitted to maintain a measure of independence with Zog remaining on the throne.

Earlier it was reported here that

Bitter Fighting In Some Of The Port Cities

By The Associated Press.

ROME, April 7.—Italian troops swarmed onto the shores of tiny Albania today under cover of warship guns and bombing planes.

Sharply on the heels of this action, Fascist spokesmen in a bitter attack on King Zog accused the Albanian ruler of seeking Italian aid for an attack on Yugoslavia.

While talian landing parties invaded Albania's Adriatic coast at four points, meeting resistance which official Italian statements escribed as slight, these spokesmen said Italians in Albania had been threatened because Italy refused to help Zog attack his neighbor.

The government announced this afternoon that certain new proposals from King Zog had been presented to Italy by the Tirana government.

At the same time it was announced that Italian troops had occupied four towns on the Albanian coast—Santi Quaranta, Valona, Durazzo and Son Giovanni di Medua.

A communique said Zog's proposals were made by a plenipotentiary mission to the Italian command and had been transmitted to Rome.

It was not immediately clear whether the proposals involved complete surrender or a truce.

The government announcement, however, led to the widespread belief in Rome that the king had offered to surrender Albania to the Italians under certain conditions.

It was reported here that his proposals asked for an immediate cessation of fighting and establishment of an Italian protectorate over Albania, with Zog remaining as king and the country retaining some measure of independence.

The proposals were immediately submitted to Premier Mussolini for study.

The Rome communique said:

"At 10 a. m. (3 a. m. C. S. T.) a mission of plenipotentiaries sent by King Zog and composed of Minister of National Economy Gera and another Albanian official an daccompanied by Italian Military attache (Colonel) Gabrielli asked to confer with General (Alfredo) Guzzoni (former governor of Eritrea), commander of the troops, to submit some proposals of King Zog."

Report Fierce Resistance

(Irana reports told of fierce resistance to the invaders but indicated later an official Albanian delegation was seeking to arrange a halt in the fighting.

(Heavy aerial and naval bombardment of Albanian ports was reported during the invasion, which Albanians said we the result of the refusal of King Zog's government to bow to a secret Italian ultimatum.)

The first word of Italy's military action brought the British ambassador to Rome, the Earl of Perth, to see Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano.

It was reported he said Britain regarded the invasion as a breach of the Anglo-Italian friendship agreement. Count Ciano replied with unspecified "assurances."

(In London, the Italian embassy said any such breach of the Anglo-Italian agreement was temporary only and that Italian troops would be withdrawn from Albania as soon as "The disturbances" were over.)

Writing in Il Giornale D'Italia, Virginio Gayda, who frequently speaks for Mussolini, asserted King Zog had asked Italy "for new aid and protection and the sending of troops to garrison some points of Albania.

"But at the last hour the Italian government was able to ascertain that its military forces would have served only for a foolish attack on the king on the Yugoslav border toward Kovoso with the evident aim of disturbing the quiet and cordial relations of collaboration between Italy and Yugoslavia."

Gayda said Italy's refusal of

Diplomats In Study Of Action

LONDON, April 7—(AP)—Intense diplomatic activity seeking to widen the European anti-aggression bloc by including Hungary and Rumania today followed the first word of Italy's invasion of Albania.

Great Britain, at the insistence of Polish foreign minister Col. Joseph Beck, was understood to have agreed to allow Poland to sound out Hungary on prospects of joining the mutual defense front.

(In Warsaw, the Budapest government was reported to have assured Poland already that Hungary would join Poland in resisting Nazi influence and expansion if her military forces could be strengthened.)

If Hungary should come into the bloc, she presumably would contract a mutual defensive alliance either with Britain direct or with Poland.

Efforts to bring Rumania into a similar position with respect to the bloc have been under way for some days.

Official reports to the British government of Italy's invasion of Albania was followed by an official statement by the Italian embassy declaring Italian troops would be withdrawn from the Adriatic kingdom "as soon as the recent disturbances are terminated."

Informed sources said the Earl of Perth, British ambassador to Rome, had been instructed to point out to Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano that the occupation of Albania contravened the 1938 Anglo-Italian agreement which stipulated that the status quo should be maintained in the Mediterranean area.

Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax decided to remain in London, despite the Easter recess of parliament, when news of the Italian action in Albania reached him.

He conferred with a number of diplomats, including French Ambassador Charles Corbin, Polish Ambassador Count Raczynski, Albanian Minister Lec Kurti and Rumanian Minister Viorel Tilea.

Col. Beck left London for Warsaw at 2 p. m. after interviews with Corbin and Tilea. His visit, beginning Monday, was marked by formation of a British-Polish reciprocal defensive alliance.

The Co-Operative Movement Expands

Now that the Co-operative league has decided to conduct its own lobby in Washington, the movement may be said to be mature in this country. For that is the history of almost all organizations; when they grow big enough and strong enough, they open a Washington lobby.

Though the name "lobby" has acquired an offensive odor in American politics, the thing itself is not necessarily offensive if conucted openly and on the level.

There are governments today based on the idea that a man should be represented in his government not as a citizen of his community, but as a member of his labor organization, a worker or employer in his trade or business.

The American institution of the lobby is our own means of getting men so represented. As citizens they are represented by the congressmen from their geographical districts. But as members of their trade unions, their chambers of commerce, their industries, their organizations of every sort, they are represented by unofficial lobbies, which defend their group interests before the legislators.

* * *

The growth of co-operative associations in the United States has been so great in the last few years that it represents a powerful group interest.

The Consumers Co-operative Association, a federation of 425 co-operatives in the middlewest, has more than 100,000 patron-members.

The Credit Union National Association reports 2,000,000 members of credit unions, most of which growth has taken place during the last 10 years.

One-sixth of all farm supplies in the country are bought by co-operatives, which also handle huge quantities of oil products. At least 3,330,000 consumers buy through 11,000 co-operatives.

This is a big factor in the national economy, and one which is no longer to be ignored in any calculations on the business scene.

* * *

Through its affiliation with the international Co-operative Alliance, representing 70,500,000 members of co-ops in 39 countries, the Consumers Co-operative Association is inviting to Kansas City the triennial international convention in 1940, previously scheduled for Prague.

Such a meeting under Nazi auspices would be practically impossible. If the American co-ops could land such a meeting, it would bring thousands of progressive-minded people to visit the United States, which is now beginning an active campaign to bring travelers from abroad.

The co-operative movement, which only as a visionary activity of a small group, a few years ago was regarded by many is itself getting into the realm of big business.

Farmers represent nearly 30 per cent of the population and 20 per cent of the wealth of the United States.

China leads the world in population, with 450,000,000 inhabitants, followed by India with 350,000,000, and Russia with 178,000,000.

No Snake-Eating

If you're thinking of eating snakes in public, don't go to Kansas to do it.

It's against the law. Nothing is provided relating to the eating of live goldfish, but we can look for such a law any time now.

The pro-snake statute is just one of the freak laws encountered by Prof. Newman F. Baker of Northwestern University in a trip through the wonderland of the state statute books. He found laws against inciting hostile Indians to break a treaty, against hitching a stallion within 800 feet of a place of common worship, and against stealing a neighbor's cook or butler.

It's easy to get a law passed, but hard to repeal it, no matter how ridiculous a change in times has made it. Any state which purged its statutes of all this useless lumber would be doing a great service.

And by the way, what has happened to Congressman Bruce Barton and his crusade to repeal a law a day?

The Distaff Side

"Isn't that stupid?" asked Amy Johnson. Frankly, yes, we're inclined to answer after reading of her complaint that British defense officials, allotting emergency jobs in war time, assigned her to drive a truck.

Amy Johnson is a crackajack flyer. She thinks women thus qualified should fly in case of war.

Let's not be shocked too quickly. Why not, pray?

Is it any worse to put a qualified woman pilot in a plane where she may be shot down, but at least has a chance to defend herself, than it is to bomb her in her home without a chance to raise a finger?

Yet there are people scarcely moved by the latter, now an expected incident of any war, who will get very indignant at the thought of a woman flyer in war time.

Isn't that stupid, we ask, echoing Miss Johnson.

• The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON—To his Senate colleagues, there was something rather mysterious about Senator Frazier's speech criticizing the appointment of William O. Douglas to the Supreme Court.

The Senator from North Dakota held two or three manuscripts in his hand, and stumbled through them like a blind man in a bog. It was obvious that he had scarcely looked at them and was trying to read something that someone had just thrust into his hand.

Also, Frazier had never known Douglas, had shown no sign of opposing his appointment until just before the Senate was about to confirm it. He seldom addresses the Senate, and then only on Indians or agriculture. This time, however, he suddenly rose and announced his intention to speak.

Burden of the fumbling talk which followed was that the new Supreme Court Justice was not a real liberal, was not sincere in his campaign to regulate Wall Street.

All of which considerably mystified Frazier's Senatorial colleagues and give them the impression that he had merely repeated a written diatribe against Douglas which a friend had composed for him.

Apparent confirmation of this came a little later, when it was reported that instigators of Frazier's remarks were Max Lowenthal, counsel for the Senate railway finance investigating committee, and Orben Litchfield, a member of the Brokerage firm of Hibbs and Company.

Far more interesting, however, was the remark of Litchfield when accused of inspiring the Frazier speech. It indicated that some of the boys are taking the Douglas presidential talk more than seriously.

"We weren't interested in Douglas as Supreme Court Justice," said Litchfield. "All we wanted to do was to spike his guns for 1940."

Note—Max Lowenthal is an intimate friend of Senator Wheeler of Montana, one of the presidential possibilities on the Democratic quasi-liberal ticket. Some New Dealers see the hidden hand of Bert Wheeler in the Lowenthal-Litchfield-Frazier by-play in the Senate.

Monroe Doctrine In Air

German aviation penetration of Latin America was carefully studied at a secret meeting in the office of Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson the other day. Officials of the State, War, Navy and Commerce Department attended.

One War Department official reported: "It is an alarming fact that Germany and Italy have recently been making rapid advances which, if not arrested, might well end in virtually shutting the United States out of the Latin American aviation market."

It was also reported that Germany is developing its Focke-Wulf plane to be operated in South America by the Syndicato Condor, a subsidiary of Lufthansa. The ruote will encircle South America—from Natal, Brazil, to Buenos Aires, then across the Andes to Chile, and up the west coast.

The Germans have other subsidiary companies in Peru, and have just obtained a concession in Ecuador. Still more alarming was the presence of German crews operating the Scadta system in Colombia, where the lines reach to within a short distance of the Panama Canal.

The answer to this competition, it was proposed, should be an extension of U. S. airlines in the same areas, using a commercial version of the Army's "Flying Fortresses."

Wet Gift

Senator Morris Shepherd fathered the 18th Amendment and still is one of the most devoted Drys in public life. Each year, on the anniversary of the Amendment's ratification, he makes a speech acclaiming its virtues and prophesying the return of prohibition.

Yet the gentle little Texan is the possessor of a set of handsome wine glasses. He revealed the secret when some unexpected guests turned up at a party given by a neighbor, who dashed over to Shepherd's house to borrow a few glasses.

"Certainly," replied Shepherd, laughing. But at that moment the neighbor recalled who Shepherd was, and started to apologize.

"Oh, that's all right," Shepherd reassured him, "we have had these glasses since we were married many years ago. A friend gave us a set of two dozen. We have never used them but my wife kept them. You're welcome to take them."

No Wagner Changes

The wise boys on Capitol Hill are predicting privately that this session will write no changes in the Wagner labor act.

They say the AFL and other advocates of amendment missed the best when they failed to start the ball rolling in January. Now, with the session well past the halfway point, it is too late. Supporters of the law are in a strong position to stall action by delay-tactics.

The Senate Labor Committee starts its first revision hearings next week. But it will be a month at least before the committee will be ready to report to the Senate, which will be about the middle of May—or just when floor leaders are laying plans for adjournment.

By prolonging debate in the Senate, Wagner Act champions easily can use up another month, which would eliminate any chance of a bill being considered by the House Labor Committee in time for final action. The House committee has no intention of acting until the Senate has taken a stand.

Note—Several members of the Senate Labor Committee are considering offering a compromise. This would call for appointment of a Presidential committee, similar to the one which studied British labor relations last summer, to survey the opeation of the Wagner law and make recommendations to Congress next January.

SERIAL STORY

'MRS. DOC'

BY TOM HORNER

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

The characters and situations in this story are wholly fictional.

* * *

Yesterday: Emily realizes in the crisis that she loves only Alan, that she must remain with him. Meanwhile, as Alan is operating a lamp is poised to drop on his head. Eric jumps to catch it to save Alan.

CHAPTER XIX

THE reflector was only inches from Alan's head when Eric caught it in both hands, pulled it toward him so that the heavy metal container would fall clear.

Agonizing pain shot through his hands, up his arms. Then numbness. His raincoat protected his body, but he felt the intense heat on his face, scorching the flesh, digging at his eyes.

The container missed Alan and Farrell, cleared the table by a hair's breadth, fell to the floor with a crash. A man behind Eric jumped, cut off the gas, pulled the lamp from Eric's desperate grasp.

Eric stood, his teeth digging into his lip, every muscle rigid, his hands flaming torture.

Farrell was at Eric's side, holding his wrists. Grady was rummaging in a bag for unguents.

"It — would — a — hit — you— Alan!" Eric groaned.

* * *

"WELL, how do those hands feel now?" Alan asked.

"About like the dam looks." Eric managed to grin.

They stood at the edge of the trestle, high above the broken wreckage in the bright sunlight of a chilly March morning. Far down the river, Alan could see the barge, bearing the injured men, Farrell, Grady, Weber and Father Johnson toward Price's Point and waiting ambulances. Two white-sheeted forms lay on that barge. Twelve others lay there, too, but they, with good luck and care, would recover. Still others sprawled or stood with arms or legs in awkward, hastily made splints. Below him a crew of men dug steadily at a huge mass of gravel. Bud Price's body was still in there.

Alan looked around. Over the top of the diversion dam into the waters of the lake it had created, a lake now strangely still. Water trickled through a gash at one end of the earth and gravel fill, spilling down to splash on the timbers of the broken trestle. The wheels of a half-buried truck were there, too, looking like a child's toy buried in a sand pile.

It was the damage done the once-splendid framework of the main dam that he hated to see, for he knew that the pain it caused Eric hurt far worse than the burns on his hands. Sunlight glistened on the grease on Eric's face as he turned to survey his broken dream.

"If we could have had more time—more steel—more concrete —it might have held," he said.

"It isn't completely ruined, is it?" Alan asked. "Can't you clear away the wreckage, start again?"

"Possibly. Depends on what they want to do in Washington. This river can be licked, and if they'll let me—I'll lick it yet!"

Baker was waving to them from the shack. Slowly, silently, they turned away, started down the steep steps to the waiting launch.

* * *

"MRS. WARREN called early this morning, Doctor," a nurse was saying. "She wanted you to call as soon as you could."

They were on the sunporch of the hospital. Eric stretched full-length upon a lounge, while Alan slumped, comfortable and relaxed, in a deep chair.

"Thank you, Miss Anderson. I'll be going home, soon as that gang of reporters gets off the front door step."

The wail of an infant came faintly through the corridor.

"That's young Alan Warren Brown," Miss Anderson explained. "We let his mother keep him a little longer than usual this morning—she was worried about her husband. Now he's spoiled, already, and hates going back to the nursery."

Alan laughed heartily. "He's rather young for that—but let Harry and Maryanne have him in the room with them if they want to. It won't hurt him. Harry's pretty glad to be here safe. . . . Well, Eric, feel like facing the press barrage?"

* * *

"Dr. Warren, you and Mr. Kane stop there. Now shake his bandaged hand." Lights flashed in their faces. Cameras clicked.

"Is it true, Dr. Warren, that you did all the surgery?" Alan shook his head.

"You burned your hands when you beat out the fire on Dr. Warren's blazing gown, didn't you, Mr. Kane?"

"Have they found Bud Price yet?"

"Come on Eric. We'll get some food—and some sleep. We need it."

* * *

EMILY was waiting in the doorway for them. She rushed to Alan, her arms encircled his neck pulling his face down so that she could kiss him again and again.

"I'm so glad—so glad you're home safely—so glad." She was laughing and crying. Eric hesitated. Emily ran to him, kissed him on the cheek.

"I know what you did, too, Eric. Dr. Farrell stopped on his way home from the hospital, and told me about the lamp. That was fine of you, Eric. Oh, your poor hands!"

Alan saw the kiss, saw her take Eric's bandaged hands in hers, but he gave no indication of seeing. Instead, he put Emily between Eric and himself and hurried both of them into the house.

"I'm starved, Herminia," he shouted to the walls. "Put on all the food you can find. We'll eat it."

Emily was hanging on to his arm, lovingly, proudly.

"Now I have to know everything," she ordered. "Begin right where you left me at the dock, and don't miss a single thing."

* * *

"SO you see, it wasn't much, after all," Alan concluded his recital of the night's events, a story punctuated by mouthfuls of food and swallows of coffee.

"But it was—it was great and heroic," Emily insisted. "And how brave of you, Eric, to take that terrible burn to save Alan."

To save Alan for me, Emily thought, and for Sumner. Scars on his hands would never interfere with Eric's work, but if Alan had been burned he might have been forced to abandon obstetrics, maybe all his work. And if his eyes had been hurt—she could not bear to think of his eyes, forever dull. She owed Eric a debt—never to be paid—for bringing Alan home safely. She owed him and his dam even a greater debt for making her realize her love for Alan.

"To save Alan." The words stung Alan. To save him to come home and give up Emily to Eric?

"Dr. Peterson called this morning, Alan," Emily was saying, "from the airport. "Said the papers were full of stories about the dam, and noon editions were praising you. He's sending you a contract. Said he'd call you from New York."

"Well, if I'm still asleep when he calls, don't wake me," Alan said with a laugh. "Come on Kane."

"Alan, about last night, about what I said about leaving," Emily began.

"Save it until later, Emily. I have something to say about that too—now!"

Old Kickato will aid in eliminating from the bowels the impacted waste matter caused by occasional constipation. Then pep and energy should return. Get the large bottle today for only 49c try it and if you fail to obtain satisfactory results your money will be returned.

Made For Each Other

Lovely Carole Lombard and popular James Stewart make their debut as a new romantic team in David O. Selznick's "Made For Each Other," a modern-day drama of young married love which begins an engagement at the Liberty theatre on Sunday. Supporting this new starring duo is a large and imposing cast of notable players headed by Lucile Watson, Charles Coburn, Ruth Weston, Donald Briggs and Eddie Quillan. The cast in its speaking parts alone numbers 86, at least 40 to 50 higher than the ordinary feature.

"Made For Each Other," filmed from the screenplay written by Jo Swerling, is the poignant story of John and Jane Mason, a young married couple, whose counterparts may be found almost anywhere in the world, a couple struggling to overcome opposing economic forces, their lives complicated by the presence of a good-intentioned but misguided mother-in-law. All the joys, the tragedies, the problems, comedy and romance of young married love are woven into the story.

Miss Lombard, star of the screen's most successful comedies, plays the role of Jane Mason—providing fans with big news. For, this role is Miss Lombard's first serious and dramatic one in years, and she portrays a girl into whose life comes a balance of happiness and tragedy. With James Stewart, one of the screen's most popular heroes, playing Miss Lombard's lawyer-husband. Selznick introduces a new film starring team.

Mean Man Mike Kilonis Wins, But Gently

Dempsey Highlight Of B. P. O. Elks Wrestling Show In Convention Hall

Jack Dempsey, idol of millions and the third man in the ring at the B. P. O. Elks first wrestling show Thursday night swung nary a blow at the mean man Mike Kilonis, New York Greek, who was very gentle, as wrestlers go, in winning his bout in two out of three falls.

"Louis Firpo was my toughest fight and the hardest punches I ever fought," said Dempsey in answer to questions, between falls, of the Kilonis-George bout.

"I was lucky the Tunney fight ended the way it did," Dempsey said, because if I had won I would probably have been knocked out in my next fight.

Before probably the largest crowd ever to attend a grappling event in the Convention hall, Mike Kilonis, 207, New York City, claimant of the "world junior heavyweight title," defeated Don George, 210, Boston, two out of three falls.

'Neck-Cracker' Hold

Kilonis won the first fall in 13 minutes, lost the second to George in six and one half minutes, and relied on his famous "neck-cracker" hold to win from George in five and one quarter minutes on the third and deciding fall.

In the semi-windup, two falls out of three, 45 minutes time limit Wladek Zbyszko, 240, Krakow, Poland defeated Harry Cadell, 220, Sherman, Tex., two out of three falls.

It took Zbyszko just thirteen minutes to pin Cadell twice. In six minutes and seven minute falls, respectively.

Evkovich Wins

John Evkovich, 220, Chicago, beat Elmer Guthrie, 222, Hutchinson, Kas., in seven minutes in the special event, one fall and a 30 minute time limit.

A boxing match, featuring the "Skeeter Weight Specialists", of Sedalia, between Swede Olsen and Battling Harms was a special feature.

O. B. Poundstone was the announcer and E. C. Martin the timekeeper.

Dempsey was the guest of Al Tracy, manager of the Bothwell, and Mrs. Tracy, in a suite of rooms where the former heavyweight entertained his friends. He was also dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Tracy.

Jockey Sande Takes Up Flying

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 7.—Recently Earl Sande, the famous jockey, started taking flying lessons at a Columbia airport.

But Sande, now a trainer, admitted he was giving them up.

Mrs. Sande, it seems, read a news story of her husband's aerial exploits, and she thinks riding in a pack of thundering thoroughbreds is danger enough.

"Mrs. Sanda thought flying was dangerous," Sande said, "and rather than upset her, I quit."

Layton Again Loses To Joe Chamaco

HARTFORD, Conn., April 7.—(AP)—Joe Chamaco, who clinched the world's three-cushion billiard championship this week, pushed Johnny Layton, eleven times national titleholder, further down in the season's list by winning from the veteran 50 to 35 here last afternoon and repeating his triumph 50 to 36 last night.

Lieut. Ferrier, Former Resident, To Admiral's Staff

Lieut. D. T. Ferrier, son of Walter Ferrier, M-K-T conductor, a former Sedalian now living in Paola, Kas., was named force radio officer of a protective staff announced Thursday by the navy for Rear Admiral James O. Richardson, when he assumes his duty as commander of the fleet's battle force in June.

Lieut, Ferrier, a graduate of Annapolis Naval academy, is a friend of Lieut. Commander Frank Monroe Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Monroe of the Terry apartments.

The Ferriers lived here a number of years ago and both Lieut. Ferrier and his older brother, Walter Ferrier Jr., graduated from the Sedalia high school. The latter was a classmate of Lieut. Commander Monroe. Mr. Ferrier is now in the insurance business in St. Louis.

The senior Ferrier, who has been with the Katy for many years, is a conductor on the run between Paola and Kansas City Junction.

'Spawn Of The North,' r ugged Drama of Alaskan Life At Uptown Theatre Today and Saturday

George Raft, Dorothy Lamour an d Henry Fonda in "Spawn Of The North."

A panoramic view of the rugged life in America's last frontier is brought to the screen for the first time in the Alaskan drama, "Spawn of the North" which comes to the Uptown theatre today and tomorrow. This story of the men who sail the icy waters of the Arctic is set against a background about which most Americans know very little but one which captures the imagination every time it is mentioned. As in all frontier communities, life is lived with mad abandon, and sudden death evokes little emotion. The law counts only insofar as there are men around with the will and strength to enforce it. The titanic struggle between fishermen and sea raiders pictured in the story has been Alaska's most serious problem for decades, and is no nearer solution now than when it first began. Co-feature on the program is "The Thundering West" with Charles Starrett in the saddle again. Tonight only brings the tenth of the Search for Talent shows.

S. C. Wins In A Track Meet

Clinton High School Gets Only 2 Firsts

Smith-Cotton's track team, taking first place in every event but the 100 yard dash and the high jump, won easily over Clinton High School in their first dual meet of the season Thursday on the S.-C. field. The final point score was 90-28.

Lercy Brauer, with 11 points gained by firsts in the broad jump and shot put and a third in the 100 yard dash, and Ray Rayl, who walked away with the mile and half-mile runs for 10 points, were the leading Smith-Cotton scorers.

Geer in the 100 yard dash and Angle in the high jump were the only two Clintonites to come through with victories. A high cold wind kept times and heights below their usual standard.

Rayl's 4:48.5 mile, which brought him home over half a lap in front of the other runners, was the best time turned in by any of the track men.

Smithton was supposed to send a track team here for the meet, but for some unexplained reason they failed to appear. Coach Jimmy Obermiller thinks they may have gotten their dates mixed and thought the meet was scheduled for today.

The results follow:

Mile run: Rayl, S.-C. first, Willis, S.-C., P. Meyers, S.-C. 4 minutes, 48.5 seconds.

Discus: Green, S.-C. first, Ellis, S.-C. Hendrich, C. 101 ft. 6 in.

High Jump: Angle, C. first, Price, C. Weller and Ross, S.-C. 5 feet 2 in.

Pole Vault: Meyers and Graham, S.-C. tied for first, Roberts, C., third. 9 ft., 8 in.

100 yard dash: Geer, C., first, Sanders, S.-C. Brauer, S.-C. 10.8 sec.

Shot Put: Brauer, S.-C. first, Pierce, S.-C. Snuffer, C., 37 ft., 8.5 in.

440 yard dash: C. Logan, S.-C. first, Roberts, C., Hollinsworth, S.-C. 59 sec.

220 yard dash: Sanders, S.-C., first, Geer, C., T. Ellis, S.-C. 24.5 sec.

880 yard run: Rayl, S.-C., first, Foley, S.-C., Angle, C., 2 min., 11.5 sec.

880 yard relay: Won by S.-C., 1 min., 40 sec.

100 yard low hurdles: Gudorp, S.-C., first, Kirkman, S.-C., Turney, C., 12.7 sec.

Medley Relay: Won by S.-C., 1 min., 45.6 sec.

Broad jump: Brauer, S.-C., first Alvin, C., Graham, S.-C., 19 ft., 6 in.

60 yard high hurdles: Gudorp, S.-C., first, Kirkman, S.-C., Turney, C., 8.2 sec.

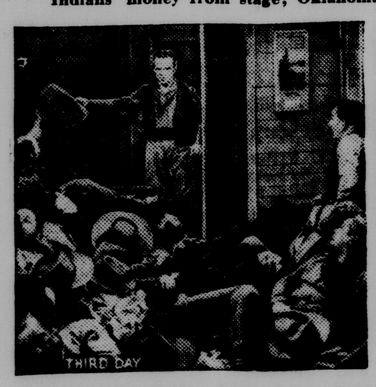
JAMES CAGNEY as "THE OKLAHOMA KID"

A Warner Bros. Picture — with Humphrey Bogart and Rosemary Lane — coming to LIBERTY THEATRE

THE STORY THUS FAR: At opening of Cherokee Strip, Whip McCord robs Indians' money from stage; Oklahoma Kid shoots up McCord gang and takes the cash himself. Judge Hardwick and his daughter Jane, in Tulsa before the rush starts, fail to get hotel rooms. The Oklahoma Kid aids them.



THE OKLAHOMA KID (James Cagney) wakens crowd asleep on hotel room floor by shouting that the big land rush has begun. They leave in wild excitement. The Kid amazes pretty Jane Hardwick (Rosemary Lane) by presenting her the key to the room he has tricked the claim rushers out of. At the appointed hour the gun is fired and the 'Sooners' frantically rush to the Cherokee Strip to stake their claims. Tulsa is wide open and the villainous Whip McCord leads in fleecing the newcomers in his gambling houses and dance halls. Kincaid and his son Ned, and Hardwick, represent law. (Continued tomorrow)

Italian Troops Start Invasion Of Albania

Zog's request caused "violent resentment" on the part of the king and his followers which was vented "with provoking and significant acts of violence against Italian citizens living in Albania and against those Albanian leaders suspecte of more authentic friendship for Italy."

Italy entered Albania, Gayda continued, "not in a spirit of harsh domination by conquest" but with a "profound sense of respect" for the country's spirit, customs, and needs.

He pledged Italy's collaboration "to help the Albanian people along the road to work and progress."

(Semi-official sources at Tirana said Italians who landed on the beach at Durazzo were twice driven into the sea by Albanian patriots, and that hand to hand fighting took place in the streets of Valona when Italians succeeded in landing there and encountered resistance from Albanian soldiers, gendarmes and volunteers.)

Four hundred airplanes of Italian aerial squadron "A" which had been mobilized patrolled the skies over Albania with orders, the Italian government said, to refrain from bombing inhabited centers and to "spare the populations."

Follows Negotiations

Italy's military action followed week-long negotiations between Italy and Albania in which Italians said they sought to strengthen their 1927 military, economic and political alliance with Albania.

Officials remained silent on the outcome of these negotiations but there were rumors the military occupation followed the failure of King Zog of Albania to accept Italian terms within a time limit which expired last night.

(A French news agency, Havas, Daspatch from Tirana, said the Albanian chamber unanimously rejected the Italian ultimatum while Italian planes bombed the port cities of Valona and Durazzo and flew over the parliament building dropping leaflets saying Italian troops had landed.)

King Zog, it was rumored, had found Italy's terms so drastic he had threatened to abdicate rather than submit, but was prevented from leaving Tirana because his part-American wife, Queen Geraldine, and her first child, born Wednesday, were not able to travel.

(Athens dispatches said it was reported Queen Geraldine already had crossed the Greek frontier.)

What future lay ahead of the 43-year old king who battled his way from a leader of wild mountain tribes to the kingship, and the dynasty he had hoped to establish through his new-born son, was problematical.

The British ambassador, Earl of Perth, called at the foreign ministry shortly after noon to discuss the occupation with Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Giano.

The foreign ministry announced Lord Perth had handed the Italian foreign minister a note on the situation created by the Italian occupation.

It said Count Ciano had explained Italy's action and given "assurances" which were not specified.

Perth was believed in diplomatic circles to have told Ciano that Britain considered the landing of Italian troops in Albania a violation of the Anglo-Italian friendship agreement reached on April 16 of last year for maintenance of the status quo in the Mediterranean.

(The Press Association, a British news agency, which sometimes reflects government views, said Italy "by her aggression" appeared to have broken the status quo clause of the pact.)

Suspension of communications between Rome and Itrana handicapped efforts to obtain further details of the occupation. Telegraph service was interrupted and the only radiotelephone line was taken over exclusively for Italian government calls.

Evacuation Continues

Evacuation of Italians from Albania continued this morning, 500 reaching Brindisi by airplane.

Before the troops landed, the airplanes scattered hundreds of thousands of leaflets over all Albania reading:

"Albanians!

"The Italian troops which are landing today on your soil are troops of a people which has been your friend for centuries and has proved it to you.

"Do not offer vain resistance which would be broken. Do not listen to men of the government who have impoverished you and who would like now to lead you into useless bloodshed.

"The troops of his majesty, the king-emperor of Italy, are coming and will remain as long as necessary to re-establish order, justice and peace."

An official Italian announcement that troops and naval forces had been dispatched to Albania said action was being taken to protect the lives of Italians in Albania which had been endangered by unruly bands of natives. Many Italians had been evacuated on Italian battleships, it was declared.

The occupation was started just as Gen. Alberto Pariani, Italian under-secretary of war, returned from conferences with Col. Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command of the German armed forces, at Innsbruck, Germany.

Under Ships Protection

The landing of the Italian army of occupation was effected under the protection of cruising warships.

Three Italian warships which arrived at Durazzo, Albanian seaport near Tirana, the capital, had evacuated hundreds of Italians, particularly women and children, before the troops sailed last night from Brindisi and Bari, Italian debarkation pcints.

The troops arrived to debark under the protection of the first naval squadron, which cruised all along the Albanian coast from San Giovanni di Medua, near the Yugoslav frontier, to Santi Quaranta, at the Greek border facing the Greek island of Corfu.

"During recent days and while conversations were taking place between the Italian government and King Zog for the conclusion of a new and closer agreement," the official communique said, "threatening demonstrations were carried cut at Tirana and elsewhere by groups of armed bands which greatly endangered the personal safety of Italians living in Albania.

"Yesterday morning, April 6, our warships brought back to the fatherland from Durazzo and Valona many hundreds of compatriots, including women and children. Yesterday evening contingents of Italian troops left Brindisi and Bari for Albania.

"At the same time there left the first naval squadron which this morning at dawn was cruising along the Albanian coast from Santi Quaranta to San Giovanni di Medua."

"Aerial squadron 'A' was mobilized."

Silence Broken

The announcement broke a complete silence that had prevailed in official quarters and in the Italian press regarding Premier Mussolini's plans toward the little Balkan kingdom.

Most foreign observers regarded the occupation of Albania as putting Italy in a position to bring pressure on Yugoslavia, and Greece, neighbors of Albania to the north and south, at any sign of their lining up with London and Paris against the Rome-Berlin axis in British Prime Minister Chamberlain's "stop Hitler" front.

The landing of Italian troops followed a week of negotiations. Italians said the talks were to strengthen Italy's so-called defensive alliance of 1927 with Albania under which the tiny Balkan kingdom already had become a virtual protectorate of Rome.

Greater military, economic and financial advantages than those Italy already enjoyed with her dominance of Albania, were believed involved.

It was reported Italy's terms were so steep that King Zog found it impossible to grant them.

Tirana reported that the Italians intended to occupy Albania with more than 20,000 troops several days ago. The reports caused a wave of nationalism in the mountain kingdom.

The Albanian government said, however, there was lacking any threat to the kingdom's independence or integrity.

Thus Italy was expected to refrain from declaring an outright protectorate over the country.

Albanian military resistance to Italy was considered futile because of the superiority of the Italian forces.

Military experts estimated Albania could mobilize but 30,000 trained men from her 1,000,000 population, and that only about half of them could be furnished with arms.

Protest Is Voiced

PARIS, April 7—(AP)—The Albanian legation strongly protested the "barbarous action" of Italy against Albania in a published statement this morning.

The legation asserted "very large naval and aerial forces bombarded and are continuing to bombard unprotected cities on the coast, massacring defenseless women and children."

The legation asked "all civilized nations" to send aid to the Albanians who "despite unequal numbers are baring their chests against the barbarous invaders."

King Zog appealed to his people to fight "to the last drop of blood" against Italian invasion, Havas (French news agency) reported from Belgrade.

The monarch's appeal was broadcast from Tirana at 3 p. m. (8 a. m. CST) in German, French and Italian. Shortly afterward the radio carried an attack against Premier Mussolini, charging he was sacrificing Italian youth to "imperialistic goals of empire."

Nazi Back Italy

BERLIN, April 7.—(AP)—Officials announced today German was backing Italy in Albania and would not "understand if western democratic powers attempted to interfere with Mussolini's action."

Condemnation Action Filed For Roadway

Seek The Wife Of Bandit Shot Down

hamburger stand where Dickson was eating.

"Stick 'em up" shouted Gerald B. Norris, local chief of the FBI, as Dickson walked out of the cafe.

"We're federal agents and your're under arrest," Norris added, his men closing in on the midwestern desperado.

Dickson's hands flashed toward his guns, but a hail of slugs cut him down.

He died en route to a hospital, without talking.

Woman Informer

As in the death of notorious John Dillinger, a woman was credited by witnesses with having trapped Dickson.

Bystanders said a "woman in brown" accompanied Dickson into the small hamburger stand.

As the young outlaw walked out another "customer" said to the woman in brown, "was that the right man?"

She nodded, and a few seconds later Dickson lay dead.

Norris said Dickson, who usually has been accompanied by his wife, pretty Estelle Dickson, was alone.

Though but 27, Dickson was wanted for a long list of crimes, headed by double kidnaping and a $17,000 bank robbery.

The youthful bandit had been seen in Joplin, Mo., in Kansas City, and was known to frequent certain parts of St. Louis occasionally.

On For Outlaw

Always hoping to catch Dickson unawares, federal agents were ready when word came he had been seen entering the restaurant. The tip came about 7 o'clock.

Less than 30 minutes later the young gunman lay dead.

Norris, who personally led his squad, said he didn't know how many slugs hit Dickson.

"He may have been dead when he hit the sidewalk. We weren't taking any chances. Dickson was dangerous."

In the bandit's pockets were .45 and .38 caliber revolvers. Both were fully loaded. Local police said he also had a dagger at his belt.

"He was ready for business," Norris commented drily as he examined them. "He almost made it, but we had the drop."

Dickson was wanted for the kidnaping of Henry Metty and Claude Minnis near Leonidas, Mich., on Nov. 28, 1938, on a charge he took them across the state line to Griffith, Ind., and stole their automobile.

Among papers in Dickson's pocket was a $24.80 bill of sale dated yesterday from the Fred A. Groves Motor Company, Cape Girareau, Mo., to an Earl Mays, Cape Girareau, for a 1925 Ford car.

A. C. Schweer, a salesman for the motor company, recalled making the sale to Dickson.

"A man, cheaply dressed, who said he was Earl May of 338 Broadway here, approached me about 12:30 this (Thursday) afternoon and asked if I could sell him an automobile for about $23," Schweer said. "The only one we had in stock was a 1925 model T Ford which we had for sale for $15. This seemed to please him. The full price including a state license and sales tax totaled $24.80.

"I don't see how he could drive that car to St. Louis," Schweer said. "If he drove there in that car someone must have towed him."

Dickson. Schweer said, was alone at the time.

The youthful desperado had been reported of late in Joplin, Mo., in Kansas City, and was known to frequent certain parts of St. Louis occasionally.

In 1931, when Dickson was 19, he was sentence to 10 years in the Missouri state penitentiary at Jefferson City for a bank robbery at Stotesbury, Mo., in which he obtained $1,141 unaided. He was released after serving five and a half years of his sentence.

Mrs. Werner Dubs, operator of a tourist home in Cape Girardeau, Mo., identified pictures of Dickson and his wife today as the couple which stayed at her place Wednesday night.

The bandit's wife, she said, was with Dickson when he left her home about 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

Miss Eula Layne Suffers Attack

Miss Eula Layne, 307 West Fifth street, is seriously ill at the Bothwell hospital, suffering from an attack of uraemic poisoning which occurred some time Thursday.

Miss Myrtle Layne, sister of the ill girl, returned to the home after being away all day at her employment, to find Miss Eula lying in an unconscious condition on the floor in one of the upstairs rooms. It is believed she may have been there most of the day because the furnace fire was practically out and the house was cold. A physician was called and the girl taken to the hospital. She showed some slight signs of regaining consciousness today.

Services For Easter

There will be services at the St. Joseph's Catholic church for Negroes at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, high mass with sermon by the pastor, Father E. Gengler, on "The Meaning of the Resurrection," all followed by benediction.

Federal Grand Jury Indicts Pendergast

He said he was born in St. Joseph, Mo., July 22, 1872.

"You asked me that once," he said impatiently when the question was repeated later.

Asked his height, he replied:

"I was five feet, 9 but I don't think I am that tall now. They say as you grow older you grow shorter."

He said he weighed 220 pounds.

Pendergast rinsed ink from his hands with alcohol when fingerprinting was completed. Some ink remained and more alcohol was offered. He waved it away.

"No that's enough," he said.

He asked if he should sign his name on the fingerprint record "T. J. Pendergast."

He was informed the indictment read "Thomas J. Pendergast."

"Oh, all right, I'll do it any way you want it."

He handed back an offered fountain pen."

"Here, I think I can do better with my own pen."

Arraignment proceedings before Charles H. Thompson, U. S. commissioner, were brief. He was instructed to appear for hearing April 28. His $10,000 bond was supplied by the Central Surety Company.

Surrounded by attorneys, Pendergast hurried to an elevator when the proceedings were over. To Newspaper men's question he replied:

"I have absolutely no comment to make. I'm going home."

Ponder On Effect

JEFFERSON CITY, April 7.—Statehouse friends and foes of "Boss" Tom Pendergast wondered today what effect his income tax indictment would have on the legislature's no. 1 issue—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark's drive for state control of Kansas City's police department.

News of the indictment swept around the capitol corridors as senators and representatives were gathering for the morning session of the legislature. The halls were filled with private conversations but few members would make any open comment.

"Well, that's what they've been trying to do."

Proponents of Stark's police bill which would remove the Kansas City department from "home rule" and place it under the direction of a state board indicated they thought the Kansas City indictments might strengthen their position.

The bill—still in committee—had divided the house on sharp Stark-Pendergast lines with most of the Republicans joining the governor's supporters. Some of the latter said "off the record" the Pendergast indictment may swing some doubtful out-state members into their column.

Outwardly the news of the grand jury action had little effect on the legislature. The senate was about 10 minutes late convening as members stood about the chamber in groups of two and three talking. The house met on time and went immediately to the task of healing last night's wounds.

Summary of Indictments

KANSAS CITY, April 7.—(AP)—Maurice M. Milligan. U. S. district attorney, issued the following summary of the indictments against T. J. Pendergast and R. E. O'Malley:

"The first count charges that Pendergast, attempting to defeat and evade a large part of his income tax for the calendar year, 1935. on May 7, 1936, made an income tax return which was untrue, stating in substance:

"His entire gross income to be $58,750.00.

"His entire deductions to be $43,938.93.

"His entire net taxable income to be $14,811.07.

"Whereas under the provisions of the revenue act he should have made a truthful return stating:

"His entire gross income to be $58,750, as above, plus $55,000 or $113,750.00.

"His entire deductions to be $43,938.93.

"His entire taxable income to be $69,811.07.

"Because in truth and in fact, in addition to all the income stated and reported by him in the income tax return which he made he actually did receive the sum of $55,000 as "income received in connection with the compromise and settlement of the Missouri fire rate litigation."

The second count based on 1936 income and identical with the first except the figures showed:

"His entire gross income to be $117,378.41.

"His entire deductions to be $29,538.20.

"His total net income to be $87,840.21.

"Whereas. under the provisions of the revenue act he should have made a truthful return showing his entire gross income to be $117,378.41 plus $260,000 or $377,378.41.

His entire deductions to be $29,538.20.

"His total net income to be $347,840.21.

"The first count charges that Robert Emmet O'Malley attempting to defeat and evade his income tax for the calendar year, 1935 * * * did wilfully fail to file any income tax return at all, although during the calendar 1935 he actually received $22,500 as income receivable in connection with the compromise and settlement of the Missouri fire insurance rate litigation."

"His entire gross income to be $6,500.

"His entire deductions to be $824.78 with an oral claim of a $6,000 salary exemption, or total deductions $6,824.78.

"His entire net taxable income to be nothing.

"Whereas, under the provisions of the revenue act he should have made a truthful return stating:

"His entire gross income to be $6,500 as above plus $40,000 or $46,500.00.

"His entire deductions to be $6,824.78.

"His entire net taxable income to be $39,675.22.

No Comment By Stark

CHICAGO, April 7.—(AP)—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark of Missouri declined comment today on the indictment of Tom J. Pendergast in Kansas City, "as the matter is still in the hands of the court."

Stark was here to attend the national conference on interstate trade barriers.

Some High Spots In The Inquiry On Pendergast

August primaries.

Observers said the legislature would see the next outbreak in the Stark-Pendergast feud.

The governor, however, took the offensive. He lashed at the Kansas City city administration, and charging a "breakdown of law enforcement," and demanding the ouster of Jackson county Prosecutor W. W. Graves.

By coincidence, Circuit Judge Allen C. Southern, a Democrat but least friendly to the Pendergast group of any of the members of the Jackson county circuit bench, was due for his biennial term in charge of criminal procedure.

He impanelled a grand jury, repeated the governor's charges, and added more. Prosecutor Graves, after seeking vainly to block the jury's action through a supreme court writ, was indicted on a misdemeanor charge of neglect of duty. Indicted also were a member and former member of the county court, administrative body corresponding to county commissioners in most states. Both were organization men. In all the jury returned 166 indictments and a general shutdown of gambling in Kansas City followed.

Meanwhile, Judge Reeves impaneled another federal grand jury told it to go after the "big man" of Kansas City gambling. But Prosecutor Milligan, after calling a few witnesses on gambling subjects turned the jury's attention to the state insurance fund compromise.

After the legislature had spent surprisingly quiet months, Governor Stark again opened his part of the attack on the organization. With another blast at law enforcement conditions in Kansas City, he asked the legislature to return control of the police department to the governor's office.

The resulting legislative fight is still in progress.

Thousands Worship In Madrid Churches

MADRID. April 7.—(AP)—Hundreds of thousands of Catholics worshipped in Madrid's churches today.

The throngs making the traditional visits to the stations of the cross in commemoration of Christ's way surpassed the estimated 400,000 worshippers of yesterday.

Father Casimiro Morcillo, vicar general of the Madrid-Alcala bishopric, said the faithful were giving all they could afford for the restoration of approximately 300 ruined churches in Madrid Province.

Claim Heavy Losses On The Forces Landing

an Italian commander at Durazzo, where his forces landed on the beach, proposed a truce to save bloodshed. This evidently was not accepted.

Italian bombers flew continuously over Tirana, the capital dropping proclamations.

Negotiate For Peace

Peace negotiations were reported under way at noon by a delegation which, a well-informed source said, went to Durazzo to arrange an end to hostilities. The informant said Italy accepted "Albanian counter-proposals."

The cabinet was summoned to the royal palace, there were reports Albania rejected an Italian ultimatum, its nature undisclosed.

Economics Minister Rrok Gera and Colonel Sami Koka of the Albanian army were said to have headed the delegation to Durazzo, accompanied by Colonel Gabrielli, military attache of the Italian legation.

Albanians said this morning that "blood is flowing in streams" at Asingjini.

Italians who landed on the beach at Durazzo twice were pushed back into the sea, Albanian reports said. Similar resistance met the Fascist fighters at San Giovanni di Medua and Valona.

When Italian bombing planes appeared this morning, many inhabitants fled to the hills in fear.

The planes dropped pamphlets warning resistance would be followed by "severe military measures," to carry out the Italian desire of closer cooperation from Albania in economic and military ties.

Still Ask More For WPA Fund

senators understand what is at issue here they will join us."

An informal poll made by a group of Democrats and Republicans, however, showed about 60 votes which econmy advocates counted for the reduced figures. Their main contention, as presented by Senator Adams (D-Colo), was that $100,000,000 would be sufficient to assure adequate care of unemployed.

Pepper argued, on the other hand, that the WPA rolls already were being heavily slashed and the $150,000,000 was necessary to prevent suffering.

G-Men If Needed

While the senate debated the WPA appropriation, a house committee designated to make a broad scale investigation of federal relief considered using the justice department's "G-men" to aid their inquiry.

Committeemen said the federal agents would be used if needed and if Director J. Edgar Hoover agreed. J. O'Connor Roberts, former solicitor of the veterans administration, was named counsel for the committee, and the investigation will get underway Tuesday.

Awaiting final congressional action in the house was a bill permitting the federal government to tax salaries of state employes and permitting the states to levy on federal workers' incomes. The senate approved yesterday a compromise version of the bill agreed to earlier by a joint committee.

Expansion of home financing activities of the government was approved yesterday by a senate subcommittee. The limit on mortgages to be insured by the federal housing administration would be raised from $3,000,000,000 to $4,000,000,000, subject to presidential approval.

The bill also would continue FHA powers scheduled to expire July 1 which enable the agency to insure loans for repair work and loans representing 90 per cent of the value of homes costing $6,000 or less.

Piano owners should avoid rapid temperature changes, refrain from standing the piano against an outside wall during winter, keep room air reasonably moist, hang a bag of mothballs insnde it during the summer, and have it tuned by an expert twice annually.

The minister who has humor and knowledge of human nature sometime finds it better to fall in with rough talk rather than give a short answer. Such was the case with a bishop who asked a miner why he never went to church.

"Well, you see, sir, it's like this. The first time I went to church they threw water in my face, and the second time they wed me to a woman I've had to keep ever since."

The bishop smiled grimly, "And the third time you go," he said, "they'll throw dust on you."—Christian Advocate (Nashville.)

The Easter Promise

Easter proclaims the hope of the ages that though a man die yet shall he live. Science says he may live again. Harvest follows seed time; the miracle of spring is perennial. Philosophy says man hopes to live again. His unfulfilled purposes call for a vaster scope and his expanding personality seeks to measure itself upon the scale of infinity. Ethics says a man ought to live again. There are wrongs to be righted, penalties to be paid. But Jesus Christ says, man shall live again.

The Easter message proclaims that Jesus came to give life, the gift of God. Easter calls us to a larger, freer, fuller, richer life. The world today needs spiritual regeneration. The church is the medium which can effect this regeneration. Easter in 1939 will be Easter only as that resurrection power possesses us and directs our activity.

Paul Preaches the Risen Christ. Acts 13:16-39; I Corinthians 15:19-22 for Sunday, April 9.

Immediately after Paul was converted, he preached in Damascus where he was so opposed that he went into retirement into Arabia for three years, after which he appeared at Jerusalem; introduced by Barnabas, he was commended by the brethren; then when preaching Christ he was again persecuted and he escaped to Caesarea. He then labored in his home town of Tarsus where Barnabas called him to help him in Antioch of Syria. After a few years of happy service, he with Barnabas was divinely called as the first Christian missionries. They visited the island of Cyprus en route to Antioch of Psydia, where this lesson took place.

Vs. 16, 23. "Then Paul stood up, and beckoning with his hand said, Man of Israel, and ye that fear God, give audience; of this man's seed hath God, according to his promise, raised unto Israel a Saviour Jesus." Paul preached a positive Christ. First he preached the Christ of Messianic prophecy. There was a sure foundation for this proclamation recognized by his hearers. We, too, must find true foundations for our Christian faith.

Vs. 24, 25. "When John had first preached before his coming the baptism of repentance to all the people of Israel. And as John fulfilled his course, he said, Whom do you think that I am? I am not he. But behold there cometh one after me, whose shoes of his meet I am preaching, illustrated in the preaching of John the Baptist, the forerunner of Christ. Foundation truths reinforced by facts of history make for confidence and faith.

V. 26. "Men and brethren, children of the stock of Abraham, and whosoever among you feareth God, to you is this word of Salvation sent." Paul is definite. No one is saved by generalities but "Thou are the man" is effective. Paul had a message because his spoken words had personal application. A sermon is delivered before a congregation, a message is delivered to a congregation.

V. 27. "For they that dwelt at Jerusalem, and their rulers, because they knew him not, nor yet the voices of the prophets which are read every Sabbath day, they have fulfilled them in condemning him." Here is a piece of logic: They did not know Christ because they did not know the prophets which were read every Sabbath day. They did not know the prophets as to the doctrine of God because they did not desire to know God's will, neither did they know that in condemning Christ they were fulfilling the very scriptures which they were reading.

V. 28. "And though they found no cause of death in him, yet desired they Pilate that he should be slain." Here Paul declares that Jesus is the Christ of the atoning grace.

V. 29. "And when they had fulfilled all that was written of him, they took him down from the tree, and laid him in a sepulcher." The fact of burial proves the reality of Jesus' death; the fact of Jesus being laid in an empty tomb is an added fact that Jesus died. There is to be no phantasy as to Christ's death; when this fact is established His resurrection can not be explained away.

V. 30. "But God raised him from the dead." Here Paul declares Jesus to be Christ of the empty tomb. This fact had witnesses whose testimony would stand in any court because they were trustworthy and they saw the risen Christ. (Verse 31).

V. 38. "Be it known unto you therefore, men and brethren, that through this man is preached unto you the forgiveness of sins." Paul is an evangelist. He points to the fact of sins and then to the fact of a Saviour who will save men from their sins.

V. 39. "And by him all that believe are justified from all things, from which ye could not be justified by the law of Moses." The Jew traditionally tried to attain justification through keeping Moses' law, but this could not be done; here then Paul preached Jesus was the Christ of redeemed souls because by faith in him men find both justification and salvation.

V. 19. "If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable." How terrible the last hour would be, if we found that death ends all.

V. 20. "But now is Christ risen from the dead and become the first fruits of them that slept." Christ's resurrection is a sample of the resurrection that awaits Christians. Paul bases this statement on the two following verses.

5. What was the subject and the climax of Paul's sermon?

Clericus says: "Though a man gain the whole world and lose eternal life, he has profited nothing and less than nothing.. God proclaims in a special way on Easter the gift of eternal life to those who believe and obey."

Lesson Prayer: "We pray that we may make first things first. We would not allow our purpose to be diverted from the Christian goal as taught by God's Word.

THE BETTER WAY

Firmness Versus Obstinacy

Firmness is as necessary for character as stability is for a house. Eminent men had it. Thus Columbus stood against mutinous protests till a new world was reached. Thus Martin Luther withstood his opponents with dauntless resolution; by firmness Wellington held his ground at Waterloo and saved Europe from tyranny.

"Firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right" was the great maxim of Abraham Lincoln, and reason assures you the object in view is worthy of exertion, and is attainable.

Firmness must be distinguished from obstinacy, which is firmness wrongly exercised. Obstinacy is unreasonable stubbornness— self-will in its disagreeable aspect.

Parents must teach children firmness and choke out obstinacy. Worthy examples found in reading biography and in observation of strong personalities furnish good resource material for study.

Sermon On Crucifixion

(By Church Reporter)

Rev. R. W. Leazer spoke Thursay evening on the crucifixtion of Jesus.

His scripture was taken from the twenty-third chapter of Luke.

Rev. Leazer told of Jesus' suffering on the cross, and how he thought of others in this trying hour. In Luke 23:34, Jesus said, Forgive them for they know not what they do. In Luke 23:43, Jesus said, "Verily I say unto thee, today shalt thou be with me in paradise." The tree of life, according to Revelation is in the midst of the Paradise of God, and the tree of life shall grow beside the river of life, and the river of life is flowing from the throne of God.

Rev. Leazer said that all things upto the present time had been fulfilled in the Bible, and that this was proof enough that Jesus would come again.

John 19:28. After this Jesus knowing that all things were now accomplished that the scripture might be fulfilled, saith, I thrist. After this we find, Jesus offers to quence the thirst of the world.

John 19:30. When Jesus therefore had received the vinegar, he said, It is finished.

Rev. Leazer said he wanted us to think of this scripture. "There has never been one who has not overtaken a hard task, and is caused restless anxiety, but when it is finally finished, and we can say it is finished, there is a joy which comes to our hearts from achievement."

Jesus was tempted and bore all the sufferings that our sins might be forgiven. All the sufferings that we could endure could never compare with the suffering of Jesus.

Music Easter At Calvary Church

The music for Easter Day at Calvary Episcopal church is planned to be the most beautiful in years. A large choir has been practicing for weeks on the program under the direction of Miss Marian Snell.

Preceding the service Mrs. J. W. Atkinson will play an organ prelude, closing with "Hosanna!" by Wachs. At 11 o'clock, immediately before the processional, Rollin Godfrey will sing a baritone solo, "Open the Gates of the Temple," by Knapp, with a viclin obligato which will be played by Percy Metcalf.

The processional hymn will be "Jesus Christ Is Risen Today," with a descant, or special arrangement, on the last verses sung by Mrs. Henry Loving.

The communion setting will be the festive one by A. J. Eyre. In the credo, Mrs. G. V. Jones will sing the solo parts.

"Come, Ye Faithful, Raise the Strain" will be the hymn preceding the sermon, which will be preached by the rector, the Rev. Richard A. Park.

The anthem, "Christ Our Passover" by Schilling, will be sung for the offertory. In it the following quartet will have parts: Mrs. J. B. Drake, soprano; Miss Mary Ross Hoffman, alto, George Hoffman, tenor, Roswell Beach, baritone.

Following the Gloria in excelsis and final blessing, Stainer's beautiful "Four-fold Amen" and the recessional hymn, "Welcome, Happy Morning!" will conclude the service. Mrs. Atkinson will play for the postlude, "Now Thank We All Our God" by Creuger.

A low celebration of the Holy Communion will be held at 7:30 a. m., and the Children's Festival will begin at 4 p. m. The public is cordially invited to all of these services.

Fellowship of Prayer

"Setting Him at Nought" ....

Good Friday, April 7. — And Herod and his men set him at nought, and mocked him . . . Read Luke 23:8-12. (Another translation: "Make light of Him")

The pity, the tragedy of this passage are in that single sentence. For Jesus it meant the cross; for Herod it meant his own doom.

We need to take care what we make light of. And equally that to which we give weight. Naturally, "Herod and his soldiers" gave no weight to Jesus. (The sword has always made light of the Cross.) His weights and balances belonged to another order than theirs. There was some little excuse for them.

But for our Herods and their soldiers there is no excuse at all. only the indictment of a terrible stupidity. For what they give no weight to strikes and will strike the balances in the scales of destiny. All the losses of life are in making light of the way, the truth and the life of Jesus Christ. All our victories are in risking everything for love and goodness and the Master's Way, giving them sovereign strength.

Prayer: "O God Who hast appointed for all Thy children a war to wage and a kingdom to win, forgive us that we make so little of love and make mockery of gentleness and scourge the Prince of Peace. Teach our rulers that gentleness alone can make them great and that only the meek shall inherit the earth. In His conquering Name. Amen.

There were no children born in January before the year 700 B. C.. The month of January did not exist until that time.

Some Of High Salaries To Big Executives

Outside Movies Few Of Women Topnotchers

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The biggest corporation salary paid in 1937, congress learned today, was the $1,161,753 which Louis B. Mayer, the movie producer, drew as production executive of Loew's Inc.

Compared with that sum, the $16,587 which Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt receive as a columnist for United Feature Syndicate was a trifle. Her distant cousin, Kermit Roosevelt, got $16,585—just $2 less—as vice president of the United States Lines.

The treasury gave congress—and the curious—a glimpse of the nation's big pay checks by sending to the capitol a 1,132-page report listing nearly 50,000 persons who were paid $15,000 or more by corporations. Congress has revised the law requiring the report and next year's list will be limited to salaries of $75,000 and up.

Most of the payments, which include not only salaries but also such other compensation as bonuses and commissions, were made in 1937. Since some firms operate on a fiscal instead of a calendar year basis, some salaries were reported for 1936 and 1937.

In some cases, too, the amounts listed do not represent net earnings because the recipients have to pay business expenses out of their compensation.

Nor do they represent the net return to the individual, since they are subject to federal income taxes and in many cases state income taxes. Besides a normal income tax of four per cent, the federal surtax scale mounts to as high as 75 per cent on income in excess of $5,000,000.

Big Pay In Movies

The list showed that movie companies paid 40 of the 63 salaries of $200,000 or more. Many stars got more than their bosses.

Loew's Inc., gave the second biggest sum, $651,123, to J. Robert Rubin, vice president, and the fourth largest, $489,602, to N. M. Schenck, president.

Besides his huge salary from that company, Louis B. Mayer got another $134,750 as vice president of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corporation.

Third on the list was William Randolph Hearst, the publisher, who receive $500,000 in 1936 and again in 1937 as president and director of Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc.

The amusement field supplied three of the four salaries in the $400,000 class. Greta Garbo, the movie star, was paid $472,499 by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Maj. Edward Bowes of radio renown received $427,817 as executive director of Edmar Enterprises, Inc., and N. M. Schenck, $489,602 as president of Loew's Inc.

Right behind that came Thomas J. Watson, president of The International Business Machine Corporation of New York, with $419,398.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer paid 240 persons $15,000 or more, while 196 employes and officers of E. I. Lupont De Nemours Company of Wilmington, Del., and 167 of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company of New York were in the $15,000 class.

Outside the movies, few women were among the topnotchers. The highest pair star of the Metropolitan Opera Association was Kirsten Flagstad, who received $39,000. She got another $20,000 from Paramount Pictures.

Katharine Cornell of the stage was worth $58,717 to C. and M. C. Productions, while Lynn Fontanne and her husband, Alfred Lunt, pocketed $99,674 and $101,674, respectively, from the New York Theatre Guild.

The desire of women to become or remain beautiful of face and figure resulted in a $50,000 salary for Lillian S. Dodge of New York as president of Harriett Hubbard Ayer, Inc., and $70,075 for Blanche R. Green of Hamden, Conn., president of the Spencer Corset Company.

Money that went up in smoke helped pay the $380,976 salary of George W. Hill, president of the American Tobacco Company.

The biggest salary in the steel business was the $394,586 which the Bethlehem Steel Company paid E. G. Grace, president. MyronC. Taylor, chairman of United States Steel, received $167,662.

The automobile industry supplied $247,210 to William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors; $146,056 to Edsel B. Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, and $189,136 to Walter P. Chrysler, chairman of the Chrysler Corporation. G. W. Mason of Detroit, president of the Nash-Kelvinator Corporation, was paid $233,957.

A pair of former heavyweight boxing champs still are in the money. James J. Braddock was on the list for $51,983 and Jack Dempsey for $31,246.

F. D. Coster of Fairfield, Conn., who killed himself last year after his identification as Philip Musica, a former convict, was listed for $40,280 as president of McKesson and Robbins, Inc.

Bankers for the most part were not in the salary range of many movie stars and industrialists. Winthrop W. Aldrich got the biggest salary, $175,000, as chairman of the Chase National Bank of New York.

The $36,000 Lou Gehrig got from the New York Yankees appeared to be the biggest salary for a baseball player.

Notre Dame May Also Withdraw

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 7—(AP)—Asserting the "original purpose" of a scheduled triangular track meet at the University of Missouri had been "destroyed," Elmer Layden, Notre Dame athletic director, said today the Irish would "like" to follow Wisconsin's example and withdraw from participation.

He added, however, that Notre Dame would appear unless released by Missouri from the contract between them.

Wisconsin withdrew from the meet, scheduled for April 15, after Missouri had asked it not to enter Ed Smith, star Negro hurdler.

Petition Not Sent

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 7—(AP)—The University of Missouri athletic department had no comment to make today on reports that Notre Dame wished to withdraw from a dual track meet with the Tigers here April 15.

"We have not yet been officially notified that Notre Dame wishes to withdraw," a department spokesman said.

A petition, circulated for signatures on the Missouri campus yesterday protesting the barring of Ed Smith, Negro hurdler of the University of Wisconsin, and asking the Irish to withdraw, was not sent to Notre Dame as originally planned by the student authors.

Apologies Over An Outburst

JEFFERSON CITY, April 7.—Apologies filled the air in the house today to salve the wounds of last night's angry outburst climaxed when the Republicans stalked from the floor into secret caucus.

"This will be a damned sight better chamber if they never come back," Rep. John D. Taylor (D) Keytesville, shouted at the retreating Republicans last night—but he was sorry today.

"Several of us did not hear the minority leader call for his caucus last night and I for one thought they were staging a walkout.

"I want to say I'm sorry I lost my temper and I'm sorry I made the remark that I did," he said today. He waved a hand toward the Republican side and added:

"As far as I'm personally concerned I want to invite all you boys back into the lodge."

Rep. O. B. Whitaker (R) Hickory county, arose on the Republican side to assure Taylor "there are no hard feelings. The minority is always willing to cooperate in the interests of the best legislation for the state," he said.

The Republicans ostensibly were angered by a Democratic upsurge against their bills but most observers thought the real reason for the caucus was Taylor's resolution demanding that Gov. Lloyd C. Stark prove his assertion that gamblers were gathering a $175,000 slush fund to fight state control of Kansas City's police.

Visits Here On Way To Educators' Meeting

Miss Clara Evans, formerly of Sedalia, now teaching in the University of Nebraska, at Lincoln, was a guest of Miss Eva Evans and other friends Wednesday, enroute to Atlanta, Ga., to attend the national convention of primary educators.

Miss Evans has gained considerable recognition was an authority on pre-kindergarten work. She was accompanied on the trip by Miss Clara Wilson, in charge of the primary education department at the University of Nebraska.

Citizenship Is Restored

Ray Paxton has received a communication from Governor Lloyd C. Stark restoring his citizenship, after having served time in the penitentiary for grand larceny.

The paper was dated April 1.

Fair Trade Bill Is Advanced

JEFFERSON CTY, April 7.—A "fair trade" bill of Rep. M. T. Devine (D), Boonville, which would permit producers and distributors to fix prices of trademarked commodities by contract with retailers, was perfected for passage by an apathetic house today just before the week-end adjournment.

A similar senate measure, supported by 1,000 retail merchants from all parts of the state at a hearing early in the legislative session, was killed by the joint revision "slaughter" committee.

The house passed, 77 to 23, and sent to the senate today a constitutional amendment of Rep. H. S. Rainwater (R), Polk county, which would permit each branch of the assembly to have 150 employes instead of 75 as at present.

The amendment would be on the November, 1940 ballot.

"This proposal really would not raise the number of employes since we always add a lot to the permanent seat of government payroll and assign them to the legislature," Rainwater said.

"Besides, it would give each representative his own clerk and end the abuse whereby a member is threatened in caucus with loss of the employe assigned to him if he does not fall in line."

Jack Dempsey And Two Stars

More Jobs Are Gotten Here Recently

Records Of Local Employment Office Show Steady Rise

Filling orders for jobs, from a Chinese cook to a $25,000 a year position in a Chicago bank for an attorney and certified public accountant, has been the varied work of the United States Employment Service since its beginning.

Each state has an employment service affiliated with the United States service. There are thirty six offices in Missouri that accept applications and find jobs for persons unemployed, including the one here, without any charge. Records at the local office show a steady increase in placements recently.

When a job hunter places his application with the employment service, he is interviewed by a staff member especially trained in securing such information to determining just what he is qualified for.

This information is to match an applicant's qualifications with the job specifications, because all requirements for a job must be met by an applicant before he can be referred to an employer for an interview.

During February the Missouri State Employment Service placed 2,383 persons with private employers. There were 1,382 of these placed in regular and the others in temporary employment. Each person was selected on his ability to do a particular job.

2079 Pettis Applicants

The local office in Sedalia is in charge of six counties, Pettis, Benton, Henry, Hickory, Johnson and Morgan. These are 4,225 applicants for jobs on file here, led by Pettis county with 2079 applicants.

The bulk of the registrations for jobs comes from persons between the ages of 16 and 25 and those over 50. The younger ones are out of work because of inexperience, and those over 50 mainly because of old age. There are a number of persons in the local files who are physically disabled in certain respects.

Reports from the local office show that there is a shortage of sewing machine operators among the women and bricklayers among the men.

During the winter, the demand increases for sales clerks, factory workers, etc. In the summer there are more calls for domestic helpers, such as cooks, maids and waitresses because pleasure resorts are open.

States Cooperate

When jobs cannot be filled by one state's offices, a call is sent to other states and the jobs are filled by people on their lists. This is done by contacting the main office in Jefferson City, which then notifies the offices throughout the state.

During the last six months there has been a gradual increase in the number of persons put into jobs by the local office, from 21 placements in October to 177 placements in February.

Of 31 applicants answering an ad in the paper "Saleswomen, 3. Ages 20-35, must be experienced in ladies ready-to-wear, regular employment"—the following results were obtained: 23 were without the required experience; 5 had the experience but were above the age limit, and three were within the age limit and with the required experience. They got the jobs.

This Family Lives By Faith Alone

In a day when the average newspaper headline screams of international threats and robbery, when the road to diplomatic success seems to consist in grabbing what you can before the owner is ready to resist, it is refreshing to find so striking an example of the opposite side of human life. The Rev. and Mrs. Fred Markert had only their unswerving faith that "the Lord will provide" when they took on the rearing of 83 children. The Markerts started their private foundling home 16 years ago in Tampa, Fla., when a widow brought them her 12-year-old "incorrigible boy." Gradually their "family" grew and today the 83 children range from infancy to 16 years. At no time have the Markerts had enough money saved to enable them to look ahead for even a week with certain knowledge they could feed all the dependants to whom they have devoted their lives. But they had faith, and money, food, clothing and other necessities have always appeared when most needed. Haphazard contributions by kindly people have maintained the institution without formal sponsors, endowment, or any organized form of assistance. "The Lord Will Provide," says the Markerts. And He has.

Rural Schools Keep Same Funds Levy

Bill To Give City Schools Larger Share Is Defeated

JEFFERSON CITY, April 7.—(AP)—A bill to give a larger share of state funds to city schools was run to cover in the house Thursday by an almost solid front of rural lawmakers.

Rep. V. E. Phillips (D), Kansas City, author of the proposal, shunted it to the informal calendar when member after member from out-state sections arose to oppose it as a "raid" on the state's poor school districts.

"The 1931 school law was the best piece of legislation ever passed by this assembly," asserted Rep. O. B. Whitaker (R), Hickory county. "It has given every child in this state a chance to get a full eight months of elementary education every year.

"I say to the cities: Don't come to the poor school districts of this state and try to take money away from them to pay for your extravagance."

Rep. R. J. Murray (R), Morgan county, ridiculed the measure by comparing a new $900,000 Kansas City high school with a $9,000 building in his county.

"I see they have murals, a fine gymnasium, table tennis and classes in how to make beds and set tables in this Kansas City school," he said. "Down in my county, the mothers teach their children how to make beds and set tables."

Phillips argued that the cities received far less than their tax contribution entitled them to, and called attention to the serious financial plight of St. Louis and Kansas City schools.

A similar proposal died in a senate committee last session.

A bill of Rep. John D. Taylor (D), Keytesville, to take $250,000 a biennium from the school funds for increases in the salaries of county superintendents lost by two votes today but Taylor said he would call the measure up again for re-consideration. The annual increases would range from $480 to $1,500.

Order of Publication

It appearing to the court from the allegations of the petition in this cause, duly verified by the affidavit of the plaintiffs, that there are, or that the plaintiffs verily believe there are, persons intersted in or who claim to be interested in the subject matter of the petition whose names plaintiffs cannot insert because they are unknown to the plaintiffs and that the claims or interests of the said unknown defendants in Section Twenty-one (21), Township Forty-seven North (47), Range Twenty-two (22) West of the Fifth Principal Meridian in Pettis County, Missouri, are to an undivided one—two hundred fifty-eighth interest therein and are derived through the last will and testament of Laura Clegg, deceased, and as the consort and heirs at law, devisees, donees, alienees, immediate, mense or remote, voluntary or involuntary grantees of Edward Clegg, deceased, and it appearing to the court that the plaintiffs are seeking partition of the said land, it is therefore ordered by the court that publication be made for the unknown defendants notifying them that an action has been commenced against them by petition in the above court for the partition of the above described land and that unless the said defendants be and appear at the next term of this court, to be holden at the Courthouse in Sedalia in said Pettis County on Monday, the first day of May, 1939, and on or before the second day thereof, if the term shall so long continue, and, if not, then before the end of the term, to answer said petition, the same will be taken as confessed and judgment will be rendered against them.

It is further ordered that a copy hereof be published at least once a week in the Sedalia Democrat, a newspaper published in said County of Pettis, for four weeks consecutively, the last insertion to be at least fifteen days before the commencement of the said May term of this court.

Cancer Danger Can Be Reduced By Intelligent Watchfulness

If a man is over 40, he has one chance in eight or ten of succumbing to cancer. In women over 40 the chance is even more serious. This does not mean that cancer is increasing. It merely means that more of us are living longer, and that cancer is essentially a disease of advanced years.

Moreover, there is no use in worrying about the fact that cancer may be responsible for the deaths of more people now than used to die of this disease. It is much better to be intelligent and to make up your mind to help the doctor to find cancer in its early stages when it can be brought under control.

First remember that false modesty may prevent the prompt reporting of personal symptoms which are intimate. Such false modesty may thus menace life itself.

Second, make up your mind to have an examination at least once each year after you have passed 40.

Third, make up your mind to know more about cancer.

* * *

If you do not have easy access to information, write to the American Society for the Control of Cancer in New York City at 350 Madison Avenue. This society has material freely available for all who are interested enough to ask for it.

Concerning the details of the prevention of cancer Dr. Clarence C. Little has summarized a few simple rules:

1. Form and maintain habits of mouth hygiene. Wash the mouth, clean the teeth and gums. Remove or correct jagged teeth. Correct all artifical denture that presses, rubs or chafes. If smoking irritates your lip or tongue, stop it temporarily or permanently if necessary.

2. Discuss with your doctor the advisability of removing warts or moles, especially deeply pigmented ones and those that are rubbed or irritated by clothing or during shaving.

3. Keep the skin clean and protected from undue or excessively prolonged exposure to sun and wind.

4. Do not abuse your stomach. Avoid extremely hot food, overeating or any type of food or drink that causes distress.

5. Establish and maintain regular habits of emptying the bowels: avoid constipation.

6. Avoid tight clothing which rubs or chafes, especially brassieres which do these things.

7. If a woman has borne children she should check with her gynecologist to be sure that any tears or injuries to the womb have been repaired. Avoid the use of the old-fashioned metal or bone pessaries which are inserted into the neck of the womb to prevent disease or conception. The rubber variety of pessary is harmless.

Drink plenty of water to avoid the unnecessary irritating effects of too concentrated urine on both the kidneys and bladder.

If all the progeny of a single pair of houseflies reached maturity, they would, if gathered together at the end of the summer, fill a space of about a quarter of a million cubit feet.

From birth to maturity, the human body increases its height three times the upper limbs four times, and the lower limbs five times.

Myth Of The Easter Bunny Too Gentle To Harm Child

By Olive Roberts Barton

"Is the Easter Bunny going to bring me a basket?" asked Betty.

"Why, of course, darling," replied Mother. "He will bring it in the night when you are asleep and hide it somewhere for you to hunt."

"Will it have eggs?"

"Yes, indeed. You and I will color some hard-boiled eggs and put them where the bunny can get them. Besides, he usually brings some big candy eggs and a chocolate rabbit or maybe a chicken."

"Why on earth do you fill the child up with all that junk?" demanded Aunt Mary, hearing the last part of the conversation. "There is no Easter Bunny, kid."

"There is so. I saw his picture in the paper and Mummy says there is. He brings things to children. He is our friend."

"All right, then, have it your way. I'm going to look under my bed and see if he brings me a new hat."

When Betty had gone, her mother said, "I don't think it hurts anything to let the little soul believe there is some kind of magic left. Children love anything out of the ordinary. Mysteries and unexplainable things and all that. You and I adored Easter when we were youngsters. It didn't hurt us."

"It hurt me. I learned to think you got things for nothing. But listen, you'd better not let Aunt Abby hear you telling her grandniece that there is an Easter fairy. She thinks it wicked to mix a religious holiday with a festival."

"I know. It bothers me too. But I look at it this way. Children small enough to get a little pleasure from thinking there is a magic rabbit, don't understand the complete sacredness of the day. Besides, Easter is supposed to be a time for happiness. The days of gloominess, in nearly all church rituals, are over.

Hope In The Air

"People get new clothes and send each other presents and take trips. A kind of new hope is in the air. It is a beginning and not an ending."

"All right," said Aunt Mary. "Get Betty a nice basket. Wait, I saw one today. Leave it to me. By the way I promised Aunt Abby to go with her to the sunrise service. I think it would be inspiring."

"Yes, but I would not dare to tell Aunt Abby, though, that I was just reading that the sunrise service was part of the old sun-worshippers' religion. It came around the spring equinox, and that's why. But, you see, things are really so confusing. I think we just have to do the best we can.'"

Recalling the Tragedy Of Grant's Last Days

ULYSSES GRANT stepped out of the White House relatively a poor man. He had saved $100,000, but that was little for the life he was to lead in New York, for the demands that were put constantly upon him and his family. It was so meager, in fact, that a committee of prominent New Yorkers raised a public subscription to buy the ex-President and Civil War general a suitable home.

Grant and his family moved to New York soon after and shortly the bearded hero set about to invest his money so as to assure the best possible return. As it turned out, it was the worst possible. For Grant was persuaded by a worthless schemer, one Ferdinand Ward, to invest in a brokerage business. It practically ruined both Grant and his son.

Grant's name seemed a golden guarantee and thousands of veterans invested in the firm. Things seemed to go very well for a time, too. Then Ward revealed the crisis and the honest Grant was forced to dig deep to meet it. Grant even accepted a loan of $150,000 from William H. Vanderbilt. The final blow came when Ward cashed the check and absconded with the money.

So Grant, in desperation, turned over every cent he owned, even his house. There were weeks when even the grocery bill lagged. But Grant came out on top finally. He came out, however, a sick man. An old ailment was agitated by the crisis. From this point Grant steadily failed in health. Months later he died. He is shown above on a stamp of the U. S. series of 1894, light brown and also blue, enlarged.

Hundreds Laid Off By Strike

PITTSBURGH, April 7.—(AP)—Hundreds of railroaders, truckers and factory workers in Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia were laid off Thursday as the result of a nationwide shutdown in the soft coal fields which already has cost 330,000 miners four days of work.

Furlough orders were sent out to division centers by three railroads carrying most of the coal from the vast West Virginia fields. The layoffs will be effective until union and operator conferees, now deadlocked in New York, agree on a new wage scale for the miners.

Official estimates of the number furloughed by the three roads were lacking, but the Roanoke, Va., World News said it learned 1,400 would be laid off in West Virginia and Virginia by the Norfolk and Western Railroad alone. The other roads curtailing work schedules in West Virginia were the Chesapeake and Ohio and the Baltimore and Ohio.

Rev. English On Negro Progress

Rev. J. C. English, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church South, representing the Ministerial Alliance, addressed the student body at Lincoln high school Wednesday morning, using "Social Injustice and the Progress of the Negro Race" as his subject.

Rev. English spoke of the achievements made by the Negro race and of the inspirations given by leaders such as Booker T. Washington and Roland Hayes.

"There is a great misunderstanding of races, nations and continents", he said, "and we should recognize that we cannot settle these difficulties until we recognize God and humanity, regardless of the color of our skins".

Rev. English admonished the students not only to obtain information afforded by the regular courses in the curriculum, but to study "the history of your race, the possibilities of the Negro race and the limitations of all races."

He commended the students on their order, quietness and the musical selections presented.

Carthage Stone-Cutter Spurns Inheritance

CARTHAGE, Mo., April 7.—(AP)—August Brueggeman, German-born stone-cutter, has decided it wouldn't be worth $3,600 to give up his citizenship in this country.

Brueggeman was left a $3,600 inheritance by his father at Brake, near Hanover, Germany.

Rather than return to his native land and establish residence there, Brueggeman said he would remain here and be content with a total inheritance of $48, to be paid over a two-year period in $2 monthly payments.

Baruch For Sale Of Arms On Cash Basis

Issue Taken By Borah On Views From Stimson

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—Bernard M. Baruch, Wall Street financier and advisor of President Wilson, endorsed today the proposal of Chairman Pittman (D-Nev.), to sell arms to belligerent nations on a cash and carry basis.

Testifying before the Senate Foreign Relations committee, the financier asserted that if this nation does not supply weapons to belligerents, "other nations will."

"We have now an absolute prohibition on the export of lethal weapons," Baruch said, referring to the ban in the present neutrality law on export of arms and ammunition to nations at war. "Now, on the essential principles we are discussing here—the principles of neutrality or keeping out of war—this has nothing to do with either.

"It springs from another high purpose which is to prevent our country from selling any kind of weapon with which men kill each other. It is a rebuke to war as an institution. It will not prevent war, take us in, or keep us out of war.

"If we want to make a gesture let us do so but let us not do it under any idea that it aids either neutrality or peace. If we do not supply the weapons, other nations will.

"Such a rule serves to aid a country, such as Italy, which makes at least some of its own weapons against others, like Ethiopia, which do not. It might even aid one South American nation, like Argentina, for example, which has easy access to other arms manufacturing nations, like England, against another like Chile, for example, which is more remote."

Baruch reading a prepared statement, said there was "lack of realism" about the present prohibition against the shipment of arms. He said it was his theory that everything is a muntion of war, even if not a lethal weapon.

"It would be easy to define and embargo some component parts of a lethal weapon—like parts of a howitzer—but not so easy to define other parts like cotton which are equally necessary to its operation for propellants and explosives," the financier testified.

"As I have said, chemicals, petroleum, steel and rubber are just as essential to the mass murder of modern war as machine guns or airplanes—or for that matter, motor trucks, locomotives and optical glass.

"It is for this reason that I am now willing to include everything in the cash and carry plan."

Baruch is credited with having suggested the clause in the present neutrality law which permits the sale of materials other than arms and ammunition to belligerents on a cash and carry basis.

Reply By Borah

Senator Borah (R-Idaho), replying to Henry L. Stimson's appeal to ban munitions sales to aggressor nations, declared today such discrimination "would inevitably lead us into war."

Borah talked with reporters before the Senate Foreign Relations committee, which is studying a half dozen proposals to revise the neutrality act, called Bernard Baruch, New York financier and wartime aide of Woodrow Wilson.

Fear Involvement Of U. S. In War

NEW YORK, April 6—(AP)—Only a "miracle," in the opinion of Roy W. Howard, newspaper editor, can prevent the United States from becoming involved "in some fashion" in another European war.

The question of whether there will be a war, Howard said in a broadcast from Paris last night, rests with one man—Adolf Hitler.

"And I doubt very much," he added, "if even he knows tonight what the year will bring forth."

He urged Americans to begin immediately consideration of some plan of action "while there is still time," and said "we should see to it that Uncle Sam does not again play the role of a sentimental sap, for there will be no remorse for sentimentality in the next war."

Howard denounced communism, nazism, and fascism and suggested that America should pay more attention to "political termites" who try to sabotage the American poliical system. He praised President Roosevelt and the "framers of the New Deal" for their efforts to "meet the challenge of the dictatorships in the matter of social legislation."

Rules Bill Be Let Out In Full

JEFFERSON CITY, April 6—(AP)—The attorney general's office ruled today the Taylor bill for a two-year extension of the two per cent sales tax was invalid because it failed to re-enact the entire law.

The bill, by Rep. John D. Taylor (D), Keytesville, passed the House last week. The only change it made in the present statute was to extend its life for two years. The present sales tax expires at the end of this year.

The opinion from the attorney general's office said the new bill was unconstitutional because "a law expiring of its own force at a given future date cannot be revived or re-enacted without setting it out in full."

Men March As Planes Soar On Army Day

Parades Attest Revival Of Spirit For Defense

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—Marching men and roaring planes in Army Day parades throughout the United States attested today to what President Roosevelt termed a "revival of the spirit of national defense."

The 22nd anniversary of America's entrance into the World war found the army in its first major expansion since the post-armistice demobilization. The $358,000,000 development program, recently approved by Congress, will triple the air force in the next two years and will add about 40,000 men to the regular army's 185,000 enrollment.

The President commended industry in a statement last night for its share in preparedness efforts.

"In the revival of the spirit of national defense," he said, "industry is playing a leading and vital role. I am conscious of its loyalty. I appreciate its cooperative efforts. Its patriotic services I commend as an example of good and useful citizenship."

The President's thanks were made known by Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, in asserting at New York that industry had responded quickly to a confidential war department appeal last fall to augment stocks of war materials during Europe's crisis.

Johnson's announcement was a prelude to the most extensive observance of Army Day since it was made an annual occasion 11 years ago. Cities in all parts of the country, where army units seldom are seen outside of military reservations, joined in public demonstrations.

Secretary Woodring, General Malin Craig, army chief of staff, and other high officials had places in a reviewing stand for the capital's parade of 20,000 troops and members of patriotic organizations. For the first time many government employes had a half holiday for the occasion.

Demonstration of Planes

The expanding air corps arranged a demonstration of new war planes at Los Angeles. Guns, tanks and other weapons and equipment were on display at scores of army posts.

Among the capital marchers, an infantry company from nearby Fort George G. Meade, Maryland, was ordered to appear in slate blue uniforms, providing an advance showing of what the American soldier of the future may look like. The war department is considering substituting the material for the familiar olive drab.

Acting Secretary Johnson told the American conference on national defense last night that industry now was equipped to turn out within a six-month period, all but 55 of the 7,000 industrial items required by the army in the event of war.

He said progress was being made toward emergency manufacture of the remaining 55 products.

Less reassuring, Rear Admiral Clark H. Woodward, a strong proponent of preparedness, said:

"I desire to repeat, and to emphasize the fact, that we are not now geared up for production."

The naval officer said it would take months for industry to make the "switch over" required to produce war materials.

"Meanwhile," he said, "as the world knows out status, this lack of preparedness on our part would give great advantage to an aggressive predatory enemy."

Johnson said the war department's program was to have "sufficient supplies on hand to carry our initial force of 400,000 men through the first six months of war."

Recalling that it took the United States 14 months to get its first division of soldiers into the fighting line in the World war, he added:

Senator Pepper Asks Increase In Relief Fund

Support To The $100,000,000 Sum Is Evident

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—Senator Pepper (D-Fla.), asked the Senate today to increase the $100,000,000 relief appropriation to $150,000,000.

The latter sum was asked by President Roosevelt, but the House approved $100,000,000.

Pepper complained a unanimous Senate appropriations committee report recommending $100,000,000 was based on an "agreement" designed to "avoid controversy on the floor."

All session, WPA discussions have aroused controversy and Senator Adams (D-Colo.), was disclosed today as believing that WPA increased its relief rolls in recent months "almost deliberately to force Congress to accede to an increased appropriation."

Administration supporters, anti-administration Democrats and Republicans generally agreed to support the $100,000,000 allotment.

"Some might put it on ground of expediency," Senator Pepper shouted, "on the ground that we want to have no schism in our ranks."

Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.), an appropriations committee member, replied there was "nothing devious" about the understanding.

Charge Increasing Rolls

McKellar, who favored a $150,000,000 appropriation, said that if the agreement had not been effected the appropriations committee probably would have recommended not more than $75,000,000.

Adams, floor manager for the relief bill and a leader of Senate economy forces, made the remark about WPA "deliberately" increasing its rolls during committee hearings on the supplemental relief bill.

He was questioning Col. F. C. Harrington, WPA administrator, on WPA co-operation with the economy sentiment shown by Congress, when it appropriated $725,000,000 in January as a deficiency appropriation for WPA.

Adams said in the face of "the obvious purpose of Congress" to curtail spending, WPA proceeded to increase its rolls by a net of 78,000 workers subsequent to January.

In the House today, there also was criticism of WPA methods.

Rep. Ditter (R-Pa.), a member of the appropriations subcommittee, assigned to investigate the relief agency, prepared to offer legislation to abolish WPA and in its stead create a bi-partisan federal board to allocate relief funds to the states.

"New Dealers have used the WPA to promote their own political advantage to such a degree," Ditter charged, "that a national scandal has developed."

Warns On State Tariff Walls

CHICAGO, April 6.—(AP)—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark of Missouri today cautioned all states against "balkanization" resulting from erection of state tariff walls in a keynote address prepared for a council of state governments conference here.

"Can we still call it 'free America' if the right to do business across state lines is dependent on the whims or selfish interests of 48 different kingdoms?" the Missouri executive asked.

"We may well ask, then, if this is the United States of America or the new world version of the Balkan States. I know of no more apt term for this process of erection tariff walls about a state than 'Balkanization.' It fits like a glove, yet the very sound of the word is repugnant to American ears."

In his prepared address Stark declared "experience has shown that while a few minority groups reap the benefits of trade barriers, the great consuming public pays the bill once these barriers have been erected. In fact these state barriers constitute a subsidy for organized minorities.

x x x

"Our domestic economy is based on free trade among the states. x x x A man's pocketbook is his own property but his conscience and his loyalty belong to the United States of America.

"If we can show him the danger which lies ahead through the pursuit of such a policy (of state trade barriers) we can convert him to the cause of a nation unfettered by internal economic struggles between states."

Kiwanians Hear Talk On Crime

Appealing for individual and citizen group cooperation in recognizing and correcting the youth problem as a crime factor, E. P. Guinane, special agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Kansas City, spoke before the Sedalia Kiwanis club at its noon meeting Thursday in Bothwell hotel.

Crime is definitely on the increase in the United States, the speaker said, revealing that major crimes numbered 1,350,000 in 1937 and 1,433,000 in 1938. About 50 per cent of law violations are perpetrated by youths under 19 years of age.

Mr. Guinane also told of the activity of the FBI in solving crimes particularly by the finger print method, an elaborate system now set up in Washington for the benefit of all law enforcing agencies. He further remarked that the FBI had handled 149 kidnaping cases and all but two had been solved.

The speaker was introduced by Ed McLaughlin, program chairman for April.

Announcement was made of an invitation from the Jefferson City Kiwanis club to their anniversary night party on April 13 at 6:30 o'clock in the evening. Thirty members of the local club responded that they would attend.

Goebbels Makes Egypt A Visit

CAIRO, April 6 —(AP)— Germany's propaganda minister, Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, arrived today for a 24-hour visit to Egypt and promptly was given a request from Egyptian prime minister, Mohamed Mahmoud Pasha, that he make no press statements while here.

The request was made through the German charge d' Affaires., with whom the prime minister had a long talk prior to Goebbels' arrival by airplane from the Italian island of Rhodes, off the Turkish coast.

Mahmoud Pasha was said to have based his request on the ground of "the large foreign communities and complexity of races in Egypt."

Officials denied persistent reports that Goebbels had been refused permission to fly over fortified Egyptian desert areas.

(In Rome the newspaper Il Piccolo in a Rhodes dispatch quoted Goebbels as saying that peace would be of long duration if "the legitimate and justified" aspirations of the "have-not" nations—chiefly Germany and Italy — were satisfied. That dispatch said Goebbels had been refused permission to fly over certain Egyptian territory.)

Enormous Increase In German Public Debt

BERLIN, April 4—(AP)—An increase of nearly 10,000,000,000 marks (currently $4,000,000,000) in the German public debt during one year was disclosed today in official statistics which put the reich's total indebtedness at 28,109,800,000 marks ($11,243,920,000) at the end of January, 1939.

British-Polish Defense Pact Is Arranged

Cognizance Of Italy's Plans To Occupy Albania

LONDON, April 6—(AP)—The British government announced today a mutual defense agreement with Poland, a drive to rid Britain of German agents and assurances from Albania that her integrity was unimpaired despite reports of impending Italian military occupation.

The Polish-British agreement, still to be signed and sealed, represents the keystone of British efforts to raise defensive barricades against German aggression in Europe.

The "purge" of German agents and the Albanian problem were important side issues.

Britain's part of the Polish-British alliance was a week old but Poland's promise to aid Britain against any aggression was new—the product of three days conversations here between British statesmen and Poland's foreign minister, Joseph Beck.

Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons that "pending completion of a permanent agreement, Colonel Beck gave an assurance that the Polish government would consider themselves under an obligation to render assistance to his majesty's government."

Chamberlain took note of the arrival of Italian warships at Durazzo, Albania, but said all was quiet there and that Albania had denied she had accepted any conditions incompatible with her sovereignty and national integrity.

Steps To Deport

Home Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare told Commons the government was taking steps to deport members of the German secret police and other Nazi organizations from Britain. He disclosed that "steps" had been taken against three Nazis in recent weeks.

"Why don't you close down the headquarters of the Gestapo (German secret police) in Belgrave square?"

Sir Samuel did not answer.

Gallacher's reference to Belgrave square, a fashionable area where the Duke of Kent lives, was not clear.

Geoffrey Mander, opposition liberal, asked:

"May I take it that the home secretary will continue to watch closely the activities of these persons and take what action may be necessary from time to time?"

"Yes, certainly," Sir Samuel replied.

No Diplomatic Immunity

Another member asked whether any Nazi agents enjoyed diplomatic immunity.

"The answer is no," Sir Samuel responded.

The Albanian legation said there was "no truth in the reports of an impending Italian protectorate over Albania," and denied an announcement credited to be by the British Press Association saying Albania would resist any occupation.

"We have been instructed by our government to say that any allegation that may appear stating that Albania has accepted conditions incompatible with her sovereignty or her integrity is untrue."

Albania has been bound to Italy by strong military, political and economic ties since 1927.

Well-informed sources in Belgrade said the "impending" Italian occupation was meant as a warning to both Yugoslavia and Greece, Albania's Balkan neighbors, to stay out of the "anti-aggression" front.

The Belgarde sources also ascribed to Italy a desire to seal hermetically the Adriatic to non-Italian influence and to occupy the Albanian coastline as "security for loans" now in default.

Disclosing the Polish-British military agreement, Chamberlain said: "Pending completion of a permanent agreement Colonel Beck gave an assurance that the Polish government would consider themselves under an obligation to render assistance to his majesty's government under the same conditions as those in the temporary assurance already given by his majesty's government to Poland."

"The permanent agreement will be designed to assure Great Britain and Poland of mutual assistance in the event of any threat direct or indirect to the independence of either," Chamberlain said.

"Like the temporary assurance the permanent agreement will not be directed against any other country."

Appears Occupation Of Albania Impends

Permanent PWA Is Intent

Purpose Is To Start It After Inquiry On WPA

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—After the house investigation of the WPA is completed, well informed legislators said today, a drive will be started to set up the Public Works Administration as a permanent relief adjunct.

Long-range relief policies were being discussed as the senate prepared to give quick approval to an emergency $100,000,000 outlay to operate the WPA until July 1. A bi-partisan agreement was worked out yesterday to accept the house-approved figure, which is $50,000,000 less than President Roosevelt requested.

Some house members said they hoped the appropriations committee inquiry into relief operations, getting under way this afternoon, would result in divorcing the WPA from construction activities. Rep. Starnes (D-Ala) already has proposed indefinite extension of the WPA, with $500,000,000 for loans and grants to the states during the next year.

Chairman Taylor (D-Colo) of the appropriations committee asked Secretary Ickes yesterday for a report on the Starnes bill and for recommendations concerning PWA.

Opposition to Starnes' proposal came from Rep. Taber of New York, senior Republican on the appropriations committee.

"That's the way to continue the depression," Taber said, in reference to PWA extension. "I don't see how we're going to get $500,000,000 or any similar sum for this purpose year after year."

The house WPA investigation will be made by the same economy minded subcommittee which has handled all relief bills.

The 12-man group is headed by Rep. Taylor (D-Colo), who said he would follow his usual practice of delegating much of the detail work to the vice chairman, Rep. Woodrum (D-Va).

Solemn Three Hours Service

The customary "Three Hours Service" for Good Friday, under the auspices of the Ministerial Alliance, will be held this afternoon, from 12 to 3 p. m., at Calvary Episcopal church, Broadway and Ohio. All are invited to attend.

The Rev. R. A. Park, rector of Calvary church, will conduct the service. Addresses on the seven words from the Cross will be delivered by the following ministers belonging to the Alliance:

First word, "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do," Rev. Q. R. Wright, pastor of the First M. E. church.

Second word, "Today shalt thou be with Me in Paradise," Rev. J. C. English, pastor of the Fifth Street M. E. church, South.

Third word, "Woman, behold thy son; behold thy mother," Rev. W. P. Arnold, pastor of the East Sedalia Baptist church.

Fourth word, "My God, My God, why hast thou forsaken me," Rev. R. A. Park.

Fifth word, "I thirst," Rev. O. J. Rumpf, pastor of Immanuel Evangelical church.

Seventh word, "Father, into Thy hands I commend my spirit," Rev. R. A. Waggoner, minister of the Broadway Presbyterian church.

This year several of the members of the Alliance have other engagements and will be unable to participate. Music will be furnished by congregational singing. The offering will be divided between the treasury of the Ministerial Alliance and the Jerusalem mission of the Anglican (Episcopal) church.

Il Duce Reviews Recruits And Plane Strength

ROME, April 7.—Italian troops landed at four points along the Albanian coast at dawn today ostensibly because of Albanian hostility to negotiation of a closer alliance with Italy.

The Italian government said the Albanians made their only resistance at Durazzo, seaport near the capital, Tirana, but that it ws "immediately broken."

Italian troops landed at Santi QQuaranta, near the Greek Frontier; at Valona on the southern coast; at Durazzo, along the central coast near Tirana, and t San Giovanni di Medua, on the northern coast near the Yugoslav frontier.

"There was resistance worthy of particular notice except at Durazzo where attempted resistance by bands was immediately broken. From Durazzo our troops started the march toward the interior," the government said.

ROME, April 6.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini flew early this morning to the military airport of Pesi, near the Adriatic seaport of Ancona, where he reviewed planes and new recruits.

The premier piloted a tri-motored bomber to the airport near a point that overlooks the sea toward Albania as rumors of an impending Italian military occupation of the little Balkan county ran through Europe.

(Yugoslav officials, who said they were officially informed of Italy's intentions, declared the impending military occupation was meant as a warning to both Yugoslavia and Greece not to mix in the Anglo-French project of a "stop Hitler" bloc.)

The Fascist press proclaimed that Italy was "ready for anything at any moment" though the newspapers were silent concerning Albania.

Military Talks Proceed

The newspapers, however, displayed prominently a communique saying Italian-German military talks were proceeding at Innsbruck in Germany.

Il Duce appeared on a balcony at Jesi after inspecting the airport and saluted the crowd but did not make a speech.

The communique announcing his visit laid no emphasis on the military phase of his fast trip which struck foreign observers as important in view of the uncertain situation between Italy and Albania.

He took off at 10:15 a. m. and notwithstanding the bad weather over the Appenines reached Littorio airport at Rome, a 130-mile hop, at 11:10 a. m.

Many diplomats believed the military talks yesterday and today between Gen. Alberto Pariani, chief of the Italian general staff, and Col. Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command of German armed forces, concerned an Italian-German plan involving Albania.

Military Operation Near

Reports from Tirana, Albanian capital, of an exodus of Italian residents, including businessmen, strengthened the belief of some diplomats that military operations were in prospect.

Albanian officials said their little army was taking "suitable military precautions."

Authoritative Italians said this forenoon that they were without word of any Italian troop landings in Albania, and the newspapers continued to refrain from any mention of Albania.

The fact was cited that Pariani was chief military adviser to Albania for five years, from 1927 to 1932. He is said to have the best military knowledge of King Zog's mountainous realm.

Diplomats were deeply puzzled as to the end to be gained by any occupation of the 10,628-square-mile Mohammedan kingdom lying at its nearest point about 50 miles across the Adriatic from the heel of the Italian boot.

Fire Starts In Steeple's Bldg.

A fire of undetermined origin broke out in the vacant Steeple's Produce building, 705 East Third street, at 6:45 o'clock last night. Damage was estimated at $500.

The fire was probably caused by hoboes camping in the building, according to Asst. Fire Chief William Middleton, who said there was a fire in a stove that has been left there.

A nearby railroad tank car, filled with gasoline, was moved by a switch engine, in case the fire got out of control.

Two lines of hose were laid by the fire companies. The fire, which caught in the southwest corner of the building and made considerable headway, was then brought under control.

The building belongs to the Union Savings Bank and is not covered by insurance.

Price Raising Legislation Unpopular

The Oregon legislature recently set an example that could be profitably followed by other states, when it overwhelmingly defeated a proposal to levy a heavy, graduated class tax on the chain stores within its borders.

It's becoming apparent that the public is growing weary of price-boosting legislation. As the Silverton, Oregon, Appeal-Tribune says editorially, "The public is discovering that it must take forcible action to protect itself against all the schemers who want to pile up taxes on the least provocation, and particularly where foodstuffs, the essentials of life, are concerned." In those states where chain store taxes, so-called fair trade acts and similar restrictive measures have been enacted into law, the common result has been higher prices, a lessening of competition, unemployment due to the closing of stores which could not carry the tax, a depression in rental values—and a consequent lowering of the people's standard of living.

There might be some excuse for class taxation against the chains if they were actually destroying other types of retailing. But the fact of the matter is that the number of chain stores has decreased in the last decade. The volume of business done by the chains has held at a relatively constant level for many years, and they do somewhat less than 25 per cent of all retail trade, with independents accounting for the bulk of the remainder. Economists who have studied the question generally take the view that chain development has reached its apex.

The best weapon the independent store has against chain competition is good merchandising. And thousands of independents are using this weapon to the fullest advantage. They have adopted innovations made by the chains. They have made many innovations of their own, some of which have been imitated, in turn, by the chains. Look around your own town and you'll see independent stores which are doing more business than at any time in the past. And the consumer benefits every time in service and price.

8,900 Lives

The country has reason to be very proud of the definite progress in street safety. February was the 16th consecutive month to show an improvement over the same month of a year before.

The February death toll was 1,810, or 250 less than the 2,060 lives lost in February, 1938. The National Safety Council estimates that 8,900 lives have thus been saved since the period of unbroken traffic improvement began in November, 1937.

This record must not be spoiled. Are you annoyed sometimes at what seems over-regulation of traffic?

Don't be, for its is this continual drumming away that is maintaining the improvement of which we are all proud.

Surely the saving of 8,900 lives is worth a little occasional inconvenience.

45,000 Tons

The Washington disarmament conference is only 18 years behind us, and yet here we are today beginning the construction of two 45,000-ton battleships, bigger, more powerful (and more expensive) than anything we have built before.

The difference between the honest effort at Washington to ease the crushing arms burden and the renewed race of today is the measure of these 18 years.

There is almost no criticism of the new battleship program. We did not choose the road.

But it is perfectly plain that if we are to have a navy at all, it must be better than any combination it is likely to meet in anger. A navy that is almost as good as its opposing fleet might better not be built.

So here we go, and the only thing we can do is to assure other countries that if that is the game they choose, we can play it, too, and play it to win.

But we should be now, as in 1921, willing to stop in whatever manner and degree others are willing to stop.

The Secret Treaties Again

If there is a showdown this spring between France and Italy, as seems likely, it will be well for every American to remember that Italian dissatisfaction with its share of the spoils of Versailles goes back even farther than 1919.

It goes back to the secret treaties of 1915 and 1916 by which the allies (chiefly France and England) made certain promises to Italy in the event of victory.

At the outbreak of the World War, remember, Italy was allied with Germany, as now. But she had little heart for the war, and hesitated. By making promises of a slice of territory here and a concession there, the allies were able to beguile Italy from the Germans and win her as an ally.

The more specific of these promises, involving South Tyrol, Trieste, Trentino, Istria and Dalmatia, and the whole "sphere of influence" of the Mediterranean area, were included in secret arrangements between Britain, France and Italy long before the United States entered the war. The question of just how much Woodrow Wilson knew of these secret treaties before the United States went in, is an historic riddle, not yet completely unraveled.

But certainly the people of the United States in general knew nothing of the deals by which the loot of the war was already divided up among the victors years before they were sure they were going to be victors. The American people have never felt as heavy a responsibility for the peace of Versailles as others, but for these secret arrangements which preceded the war, they have none whatever.

The controversies between France and Italy over Suez, slices of north Africa and Mediterranean islands, go back to a time long before the United States ever dreamed of entering the World War.

Italy maintained at the peace conference and has maintained steadily ever since, that the allies failed to pay the agreed price. Italians have insisted that they were promised certain parts of the loot which they never received. And that is what they are still shouting for today when Mussolini grimaces and screams at France.

Thus the question of whether Italy or France governs the unwilling natives of Tunisia is distinctly no headache for the United States, 4,500 miles away.

Happy, Even Though Physically Disabled

W. F. Hartman (left); Ernest Pfunder (center) and Raymond Tindell (right), cripples, smile as they explain how they have become self supporting.

W. F. Hartman, 30, who suffered infantile paralysis in January, 1928, and has been paralyzed from his hips on down since, has only words of commendation for the Missouri Society for Crippled Children, which he says made it possible for him to be happily engaged in the watchmaking business at Third street and Lafayette avenue, earning his own living. Two other persons, Raymond Tindell who had infantile paralysis twenty years ago and is paralyzed from the hips down and Ernest Pfunder, a sufferer from rheumatism, are apprentices in the place.

"I was living at 1612 South Missouri avenue in January, 1928," said Hartman, "when I became ill with infantile paralysis. I was bedfast, or able to sit up in a chair a little each day for four months. When I recovered I had no use of my legs. I was discouraged and disheartened, and cared little what happened to me until 1935 when the leaders of the Pettis County Society for Crippled Children asked me to attend their first clinic. I did, and I have missed but one since. They became interested in me, sent me to the University hospital, Columbia, gave me proper treatment and braces that fit and made it possible for me to learn the watchmaker's trade. Now I have this little shop and two apprentices who are as happy in their work as I am in mine."

Hartman takes every opportunity to call on other persons disabled as he is, particularly children, encouraging them to take advantage of the county clinic for crippled children, and receive the treatment which in some instances affects a cure, in others may mean only improvement, but almost invariably results bring about a brighter outlook on life.

Tindell, who is thirty years of age, was ten years old when he had infantile paralysis. Pfunder, now 39, has no pain from the rheumatism, but it has left his joints stiff, making it necessary for him to use crutches.

Report Made On Injuries To Hotsenpiller

Sedalian Improves At "Vets" Hospital At Leavenworth

Troy Hotsenpiller, world war veteran, who became temporarily mentally deranged last Monday night, and after being quieted by police officers was taken by ambulance to the U. S. Veterans hospital in Leavenworth, Kas., was visited Friday by Mrs. Hotsenpiller and their family physician, Dr. C. D. Osborne.

Because of the numerous reports on the street relative to the manner in which Hotsenpiller was handled by the officers, it being necessary to use force, Mayor J. H. Bagby and the police committee of the city council, made an investigation of the case.

At their request, with the consent of Mrs. Hotsenpiller, Dr. Osborne made the trip to Leavenworth, Mrs. Hotsenpiller accompanying him. Upon his return he made a written report of his examination to Walter Pinkepank, chairman, and members of the police committee. He explained the injuries to his head, chest, extremities, wrists, thighs and legs and included in his report the following statement: "The wounds about his head had been cared for nicely and were healing. There was no evidence that he had suffered an extraordinary hard beating from night sticks or that the blows had been of great force. In fact, the most painful of his injuries are due to his own resistance to the restraining bands used."

The police committee conducted the investigation at the city hall where the city attorney, John Z. Montgomery questioned forty persons, some who were eye witnesses to the incident, others who were known to have made statements concerning it. All witnesses were placed under oath and their testimony taken down by Roy Snyder, court reporter, who had part of the testimony transcribed Saturday.

It is the opinion of about all but two of the witnesses, in their statements, that the police officers had not been brutal, but that it was necessary for them under the circumstances, to use force in quieting the ill man, who violently resisted them taking him in hand.

When the evidence is completed by Mr. Snyder, and the results of the examination compiled in proper form, it will be given to the city council.

Rigid Instructions Given To Grand Jury

Court Directs Inquiry Into Gambling

Wm. R. Courtney, foreman.
B. B. Bettis.
T. A. Hurley
Higgins Warren
George Hood
Lester Skillman
Robert Bealert.

The above Pettis countians, composing a grand jury which will convene during the April term of court, organized and were instructed by Judge Dimmitt Hoffman at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. They adjourned after being instructed and will reconvene Wednesday morning to begin investigation of any crime conditions in the county.

Three Are Excused

Robert Rissler
James G. Connir
Walter May
J. O. Latimer.
Ernest W. Dugan.

Three of the original members drawn to serve were excused, R. F. Rohn, Elmer Adams and W. L. Berry, the last named of Green Ridge. They were replaced by Wm. Courtney, W. O. Latimer and E. W. Dugan, who were brought in by Elza P. Berry, deputy sheriff, who had been sent out by the court to bring substitutes for the three excused.

Questioned By Court

Before the jurors were given the oath of office they were asked by the court if any of them had been approached with reference to their grand jury duties, and if so to raise their hands. No hands were raised. The court repeated the question and said if they were now was the time to say so. Still there were no hands raised.

"I guess I have been misinformed," was the judge's comment, as he called for the clerk to give the oath of office.

The prosecuting attorney, Frank W. Hayes, is advisor to the jury.

Letter From Ministers

Judge Hoffman received a letter from nine ministers of the Ministerial Alliance asking that consideration be given to certain investigations, but the court's instructions had been prepared before the letter was received and the recommendations already made. Their letter follows:

Instructions By Court

The court's instructions follow:

"To The Members of the 1939 Pettis County Grand Jury:

Section 11 of Art. XIV of the Constitution of Missouri provides: 'It shall be the duty of the Grand Jury in each County at least once a year, to investigate the official acts of all officers having charge of public funds and report the result of their investigation in writing to the Court.'

"Section 8753 of the present Revised Statutes of Missouri provides that when so assembled such a grand jury shall have the power to investigate and return indictments for all grades of crime and by said section the grand jury is directed "to examine public buildings and report on their conditions, to inquire into violations of the game and fish laws, the election laws, the various liquor laws and such other violations of law as the Court may direct. And the grand jury shall make a careful inquiry into the failure or refusal of county and municipal officers to do their duty as provided by law. The above language is strong. I have set it and read it to you just as it is written word for word in the Statutes.

"You have been drawn as provided by law, by the County Court from the jury book containing several hundred names of supposedly good, law-abiding citizens. This is the same method prescribed by law for the drawing from the jury box names selected for jury service for the petit or trial juries in counties of this size.

Of Ancient Origin

"What is a Grand Jury? It is of very ancient origin in the history of England and goes back many centuries. It is said to be an informing and accusing body. In order to get at facts and ascertain the truth it has the power, and it is the jury's duty, to summon before it persons to testify under oath. And no person has the right to refuse to tesify unless by so doing he incriminate himself. The Constitution says no person need give testimony against himself but whether his testimony will incriminate him is for the Judge of the Court to decide and not the grand jury. The grand jury has the right to call before it persons to testify to the truth and one is guilty of perjury if he knowingly testifies falsely. A Prosecuting Attorney in the investigation of a criminal matter cannot make a person, against his will answer questions, and if he does talk it is no crime not to tell the truth. Not so with you—Because you have the right to compel any person to testify under oath (subject to his Constitutional rights) and under penalty of perjury, you are said to be a 'Grand' or Supreme body—a body or jury that is not subordinate to any person or official in the county! And you are a Grand or Supreme body for another reason; you can return an indictment as to any person against whom you think the evidence warrants an indictment, without getting the permission or consent of any person or officer of the County outside your own group. The Prosecuting Attorney under the law is your legal adviser in all matters of procedure and as to drawing indictments, but the Clerk of the Court has the duty to issue subpoenas for any witnesses you may wish. The Prosecuting Attorney—and he alone—has the right to be present with you in the examination of a witness: but the Statute provides that when the testimony of witnesses is to be discussed as to whether an indictment should be returned against any one, even the Prosecuting Attorney must leave the room so you may deliberate freely and use your own best judgment without the presence of any one outside of your own body. In this connection I would call your attention to the fact that it is not necessary that all 12 of your number agree upon an indictment—9 may return an indictment. In this respect you are unlike a petit jury in a trial in Court which actually tries the individual indicted, for all 12 of the petit jurors must agree before one can be convicted in Court upon the indictment returned.

Counsellor To Advise.

"The Prosecuting Attorney, your legal counsellor, will explain many of these details to you, will assist you in the examination of witnesses if you so desire and, of course, will prepare any indictments you may wish prepared, as these are very technical and must be correctly drawn:—once returned into Court they cannot be changed or amended as the law does not permit them to be changed or amended.

Scope of Inquiry

"The Statutes make it the duty of the Judge of the Court to call your attention specifically to certain designated matters.

"1. You should examine and ascertain whether the County and Township officers have properly made settlements and accounted for the moneys, including fines, coming into their hands as is required by law.

"2. You should examine and ascertain any Judge of the County Court, has since election directly or indirectly borrowed any money belonging to the school funds or to the County, or whether such Judge has gone security for any person who has borrowed any such money.

"3. Any violations of the law concerning the manufacture, sale or possession of intoxicating liquors must be most carefully scrutinized. With the aid of the Prosecuting Attorney go carefully into this subject of the liquor laws and give it your best time and thought.

"4. Under the law it is your duty to inquire into any violations of the law relating to 'bucket shops' or option dealings. This has to do with the buying and selling of grain, oil and other commodities on margin and under certain circumstances amounts to nothing more or less than gambling. By statute, no person is excused from testifying touching any violation of the law in relation to option dealing by reason of being an officer, agent or employee of the defendant.

"5. The law requires that I shall call your attention to the statutes requiring railroad companies to block all switches and frogs in yards and terminals where trains are made up. This blocking of switches and frogs is to prevent the feet of employees and others from being caught in such switches or frogs. The railroads of late years through their 'Safety First' programs have been adhering to the law, but you will give this matter due investigation as the statutes require you to do.

"6. The law prohibits the Clerk or Deputy Clerk of any Court buying any fee or warrant: and the law also prohibits any officer charging any fee less than the fees allowed by law. The reason for this law is: where an officer is on a fee basis whereby he is permitted to retain fees up to a certain amount and the rest to go to the county, if he charge less than the legal fees it may result that the shortage in fee come not from his own pocket but from the funds of the County. Hence, this matter should be looked into by you.

"7. Sections 4270, 4271 of the Statutes make it a misdemeanor for any person to sell, give away or dispose of to any person under the age of 18 years, any cigarette, cigarette paper or cigarette wrappers, etc., and Section 4272 says: 'The Judge of the Court having criminal jurisdiction for the County shall give the two preceding sections in special charge to the grand jury at each term of Court.' You will therefore give this your careful attention.

"8. The law further requires that your attention be called to violations relating to the making out and swearing to assessment lists of property returned for taxation. This is an important matter and you will take this up in your deliberations, not hesitating to call upon your legal counsellor, the Prosecuting Attorney.

"9. Any violations of the fish and game laws occurring within the county and of the election laws must be investigated

"10. As to elections, hardly an election is held but charges of fraud and complaints of election irregularity are heard. I trust you will honestly and fearlessly go into this matter of election complaints. Investigations should be made on the basis of conscientious duty and with regard to your oaths as grand jurors rather than upon any partisan basis. Complaint has been made of illegal and excessive expenditures within the county. The expenditures of both parties should be carefully and honestly and fearlessly gone into to see whether the law has been violated.

"In addition to the above matters to which your attention must be called and to which I have called your attention, you have the right to investigate and should investigate any and all other violations of the law. For instance, the law of Missouri does not permit any house of prostitution to run with direct or indirect sanction of law. I have been advised that not only are such places running, but that at times there is open soliciting, 'window tapping,' etc., and this upon a large scale. Under no circumstances has a house of prostitution a legal right to operate.

Refers To Gambling

"As to gambling which may exist in the County, I urge you to give this your best and most honest investigation and return indictments where sufficient evidence exists. Gambling devices open to the public are an effrontry and a challenge to law and order. Slot machines, dice games, punch boards, games of chance by whatever name called, are prohibited by law and when a law-abiding citizen sees these devices operate publicly he naturally wonders what has become of law enforcement and where are the officers charged with the enforcement of the statutes. To quote what I set out to you before: 'And the Grand Jury shall make careful inquiry into the failure of refusal of county and municipal officers to do their duty, 1929, Section 8753.

"Complaint has also reached me relative to affairs at our Missouri State Fair Grounds. The law relating to the Fair management provides: 'It shall not directly or indirectly permit any gambling devices of whatever nature to be operated on the grounds, not permit any intoxicating liquors, wine or beer to be sold thereon'—R. S. 1929 Section 12480. I have been advised that rank gambling was tolerated at the Fair of last year and previous years, that visitors in many instances have been fleeced out of their money: also that high-percentage beer was openly sold. As to last year's Fair, I am advised that the nudity and vulgarity of some of the "women shows" was shocking to all sense of decency. The Fair was intended to be a high-class educational and instructive exhibition, conducted under surroundings where good citizens and children of all ages could enjoy themselves without coming into contact with gambling, intoxicating liquor and indecency. Under the statute just quoted the Board is given the right and power to appoint and employ its own special policemen, as many as may be needed to maintain order, etc., and these seem to have taken charge of police affairs on the grounds to the exclusion of other regularly constituted officers. I urge you to fearlessly give this matter of law enforcement on the Fair Grounds your best consideration, under your oaths taken.

"Before completing your duties you should inspect the public building kept up by the taxpayers' money and make reports. I have placed this last because in my opinion the matter of law enforcement comes preeminently ahead of inspections of buildings by you. But as to all the public buildings I urge you to give due consideration as to cleanliness and necessary repairs. In this connection my attention has been recently called to the broken condition of the ornamental lamps on the Ohio and Lamine street entrances to the Court House. Needless to say, if these were repaired and put into operation (which could be done at a negligible expense) the building and its entire surroundings would make a much better appearance.

"Possibly the most important charge to give you is that any person, no matter how humble he or she may be, has the right to appear before you to make complaint concerning alleged violations of law. Let it be known that you welcome the citizen who comes voluntarily before your body. You should hear fully and carefully and, of course, courteously, what any person before you as a witness has to say, and act as you think the law warrants, without fear or favor. As stated before, what counsel and advice you need—aside from this charge to you—under the law you must receive from the Prosecuting Attorney. The Circuit Judge does not in any wise preside over or control your sessions and has no right to be present at your deliberation. You fix your own hours of meeting and adjournment. The Circuit Court must be in session while you deliberate and any indictments found must be returned by you into open court, but otherwise the Grand Jury acts independent of the Court. As stated above, nine of your members may return an indictment if they think the evidence warrants, but as to each and every one of you, as to all 12 of you, the honest, law-abiding citizens of the County are looking to you to do your duty as good citizens, without any fear or partisan favoritism but courageously and honestly with an eye single to your conscience and to the oath you have taken."

Green Claims Suppression

JEFFERSON CITY, April 3.—(AP)—Any evidence of gambling or indecent shows at the Missouri State Fair at Sedalia resulted in immediate suppression of such activities, Secretary Charles Green of the fair declared today.

A Pettic County grand jury earlier was instructed to investigate reports of "rank gambling" and vulgarity" at the fair last year and in previous years.

"The state fair management executed a contract with a carnival company which had included in the contract a stipulation that there was to be no gambling or indecent shows," Green said. "Whneaver it was reported these conditions were being violated, the places were ordered closed. Six or seven places were closed last year."

Answering reports that high percentage beer also was sold openly, Green said:

"So far as the management knows, at no time was there ever intoxicating liquor dispensed on the grounds."

Freidrichfen of Davenport, Iowa, was in collision with a truck driven by R. B. Perriguey, of 2007 West Broadway.

Mr. Freidrichfen was headed east on Seventh street and Mr. Perriguey was driving north on Ohio avenue when the accident occurred. The truck, according to a report to the police, struck the Freidrichfen automobile broadside.

Mrs. Jerriell was believed to be suffering from shock when taken from the car and rushed to the Bothwell hospital, but upon arriving there she gave indications of having suffered a paralytic stroke which paralyzed her left side.

'Jitterbug' Dances To Her Death At Party

NEW YORK, April 3.—(AP)—Excitement she generated in the contortions of a scant-clad jitterbug dance was blamed today for the death of Mary Riley, 32-year-old comely brunette.

The "dance to death" climaxed a "double-date" party early today in the Riverside Drive apartment of a man companion after a week-end round of Manhattan bars.

The autopsy finding that she died from a spontaneous hemorrhage at the base of the brain—rather than a head wound suffered when she collapsed against a piece of furniture—was followed quickly by the release of Huge Hillard, 32, and Forrest Leland Kelly, 20, who, like Miss Riley were formerly of Atlanta, Ga.

With the black silk robe thrown over her underclothing, the woman was taken to a hospital by a man wearing only pants and slippers, and died a few minutes later.

Hear Talks On Founding Shops

The regular monthly business meeting of the Sedalia Booster club was held at the shops Tuesday at noon, at which time the regular business was dispensed and the meeting turned over to celebrating the 35th anniversary of the founding of the Sedalia shops.

Chief Booster P. R. Nichols presided at the meeting, and announced that the meeting was to be in honor of the men employed at the shops who served when the shop first opened, coming from the old shops. He introduced the veterans who are still in service. They were: J. S. McVey, H. J. Stratton, Wm. Van Hoff, George Smith, Frank Royce, R. R. Ramlow, machinists, John Blue, foreman in the tool room, and Ed. W. Payne pipefitter. They were given an ovation by the shop men in tribute to their service with the Missouri Pacific.

Nichols then told the story of the efforts made by the citizens to secure for Sedalia the location of the shops, giving facts and details secured from records and articles appearing in the Sedalia Democrat and Sedalia Sentinel.

Following his talk G. T. Callender, superintendent, spoke at length on the history of the shops, speaking of the steady advancement of the method of transportation and how the railroads were keeping in step with this progress. He pointed out the fact that three 17,500 gallon tanks were being built and later locomotives were to be built all complete with roller bearings, this work to be done at Sedalia. He also spoke of the unfair transportation conditions and how it has affected the railroads and Sedalia, paying tribute to the determination of that group of citizens who fought the successful fight to bring to Sedalia its largest industry.

To Quiz Youth On School Fire

BOONVILLE, Mo., April 1.—Roilla L. Biltz, Jr., 17 years old, former Bunceton high school student, is held in the Cooper county jail for investigation in connection with the burning of the Bunceton elementary and high school building the night of October 21, 1937.

Biltz was picked up by Sedalia police Friday night, while visiting with relatives, and turned over to Sheriff Clay Groom and Prosecuting Attorney Harry Woolridge of Cooper county, later in the evening.

According to the Bunceton school officials the loss of the building and equipment was estimated at $40,000. They were at a loss as to the origin of the fire, believing at the time the blaze had started from "green coal" which had been stored in the basement of the building.

Biltz denied any knowledge of the burning of the building when questioned at the local police station.

Upon learning he was wanted by the Cooper county authorities, he went to police headquarters in Sedalia in company with a relatives and gave himself up.

Deny Ouster Of Company

Supreme Court Held Springfield Franchise Valid

JEFFERSON CITY, April 4—(AP)—The supreme court en banc in a unanimous opinion refused today to oust the Springfield city water company from that municipality, rejecting a contention that the concern's franchise had expired.

The ouster suit was filed for the city Dec. 19, 1936, by Attorney General Roy McKittrick, after a controversy between the city and the water company which followed an epidemic of intestinal disorders in the 1936 trouth.

The franchise originally was granted in 1882 in a city ordinance which states the privilege was effective for 20 years or until the water system was purchased by the city.

Judge Charles T. Hays, in his opinion said the municipal officials had recognized the rights of the water company in various ways after 1902 — by entering into agreements on fire hydrants, by adoption of an ordinance "recognizing that the franchise was still in full force and effect," and by appearing with company representatives before the state public service commission in behalf of financing plans.

"When one of the parties to a contract expressly places a certain interpretation on it, not by his mere silence but by a long series of positive acts," the opinion said, "the other party is certainly entitled to rely on such interpretation. . . . .

"It (the company) has expended large sums of money for capital increases in Springfield. It has issued securities which have passed into the hands of innocent purchasers throughout the country, obviously based on its belief that it had a perpetual franchise terminable only by the purchase of its plant at the fair and reasonable market value thereof.

"We are of the opinion that to grant a writ of ouster," against the company "would be against right and justice and we therefore hold that the city is now estopped to deny that respondent (the company) has a perpetual franchise."

The court's ruling followed the recommendation of its special commissioner in the case, R. B. Oliver, Jr., Cape Girardeau.

The statement also showed that March income tax collections, which were expected by the treasury to be only about $425,000,000, totaled $505,772,709. After 44 years of government service, Thomas F. Gray, 417 East Seventh street, retired last Saturday as special clerk at the Sedalia post office.

Mr. Gray's service to the United States began when he enlisted in the regular army from Ft. Leavenworth, Kas., May 25, 1896, when he was 21 years old. He was appointed to the postal service here July 1, 1905 by the late John M. Glenn, Sedalia postmaster. For 33 years he has been commissioned as an examiner of the civil service board, and for the last 18 years Mr. Gray has been completely in charge of the examinations in this section.

His service with the army actually began prior to his enlistment because for some time before he served as mechanic in the quartermaster's department at Fort Leavenworth.

He was posted at Ft. Leavenworth during the Indian Uprising of the late 90's. In July, 1898, he went to Cuba and served throughout the Spanish American war with the Fifth Army corp in the Infantry.

Served In Phillippines

Then came the insurrection in the Philippines, and Mr. Gray was in service there from January 1899 until April, 1902, with the Eighth Army corp. Honorably discharged the following month, he returned to Sedalia, a veteran of three wars, and having passed through the ranks of private, lance jack (no longer listed), corporal, sergeant and quarter-master sergeant.

Until his appointment in the postal service in 1905 he worked here for the M-K-T railroad.

Civil Service Examiner

As civil service examiner the veteran post office employe has been the "teacher" of most of the men now in the United States mail service in this section.

The former money order clerk proudly points out that he was born and reared in Sedalia. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Mills Gray.

He lives at his own home on Seventh street with Mrs. Gray, their daughters, Miss Hazel Gray, a member of the faculty of Smith-Cotton high school, and Miss Betty Gray. Their sons Richard T. Gray and Thomas E. Gray Jr., are also Sedalia residents. Another daughter, Miss Dorothy Gray, lives in New York City where she is employed in the advertising field.

As money order clerk, Mr. Gray will be replaced by Clennie Byler, 2911 East Twelfth street and Guy Johnston 1221 East Seventh street, will become the civil service examiner. Both have been post office employes for a number of years.

Several days ago Mr. Gray received a complimentary letter from Postmaster General James A. Farley congratulating him on his outstanding record. The letter was accompanied by an autographed picture of the head of the postoffice department which Mr. Gray appreciates to the fullest.

Democrats Elect All Aldermanic Nominees

Knipp In Third Beats Pringle By One Vote

E. H. McLaughlin, H. S. Barman, A. J. Knipp and Dr. F. M. Fulkerson, all Democrats, were elected members of the city council for a term of two years, according to unofficial returns of the city election Tuesday. They defeated Murrell Hayden, Gus Gehlken, A. L. Pringle and George James respectively, all Republicans.

The closest race was in the third ward where Knipp and his opponent, Pringle, ran "neck and neck" in the five precints in the ward, the final unofficial returns showing 874 for Knipp and 873 for Pringle, a majority of one vote for Knipp. This ward is normally Democratic.

Pringle, a retired Missouri Pacific shops foreman, was supported by a "Pringle For Alderman" club, headed by LeRoy Dent, a Democrat.

Another close race was between H. S. Barman, Democrat and Gus Gehlken, Republican, in the second ward, with Barman totalling 476 votes and Gehlken 465, giving Barman a majority of 11 votes.

McLaughlin Leads Ticket

McLaughlin, first ward, led the Democratic ticket with a majority of 352 votes over his opponent, Hayden, and Dr. F. M. Fulkerson, fourth ward, won over James by 184 votes.

Three of the winners, Barman, Knipp and Fulkerson, were re-elected, Barman for his third term, and the council will continue to be composed entirely of Democrats.

C. F. Scotten, Democrat, was re-elected county superintendent of schools for his fourth consecutive term of four years each. He was unopposed. This office is non-partisan.

Other school issues voted on in the city election were: a nine months school and $1 levy on the $100 valuation. The official count on these will be made by the Board of Education, but their approval by the voters is practically assured.

Two On School Board

Two members of the school board, Richard Keenan, Republican, and Allan O'Bannon were elected. The school board is non-partisan, each party names one candidate and nomination means election. O'Bannon was re-elected. Keenan, who resides in the second ward, is believed to be the first to serve from that ward in a great many years.

Matt Holtzen, Republican county committeeman, when asked by a reporter Tuesday night if his party would contest the election of Knipp, and perhaps Barman, said that would not be determined until after the official count is made.

This will be on April 17, and is made by Mayor Julian H. Bagby, president pro tem of the city council, Elmer C. Summers, and City Clerk J. M. Bailey.

Fire at Bakery Entails a Loss About $2,000

Bakers Keep Busy At Ovens While Blaze Fought

Fire caused by a defective wall over an oven did considerable damage to the Taystee Bread Co., building, Main street and Prospect avenue, about 6:53 o'clock Friday night. Elmer Dillard, manager of the bakery said he believed the damage would reach at least $2,000.

An investigation revealed a defective wall in the oven fire box. It was believed the heat through this caused the fire, which evidently smouldered for several hours before it was noticed.

Dorsey Walter, who was working in front of the large oven, noticed smoke seeping out through the wall above. He reported the incident and the fire department was called.

When a hole was cut into the wall to fight the blaze it burst forth and up through an air-vent. Quick work on the part of the firemen brought it under control within a few minutes without any damage to the ovens, and also without hindering the work of the bakers.

Work As Usual

While firemen worked above, the men in the "make-up" room and the bakery kept the bread going and coming from the large ovens.

The fire and smoke did not reach the ovens nor were any of the bread and rolls in the make-up room damaged. Work continued on regular schedule.

To reach the blaze, firemen had to hack away a large portion of the room which covered the four ovens. The ovens were protected by a thickness of rock wool and covered by a layer of sand.

The firemen used as little water as possible so as not to stop the bakery operations.

Don Wimmer, superintendent over the Sedalia plant, whose home is in Decatur, Ill., was in Sedalia on a regular visit and consulted with Mr. Dillard regarding the plant operations. He praised the Sedalia firemen for their efficient work.

Mr. Wimmer and Mr. Dillard announced work would begin immediately to repair the damage and indicated some changes might be made.

The losses are covered by insurance.

Hirth Endorses Police Plan

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 1—(AP)—William Hirth, president of the Missouri Farmers' association, tonight endorsed Governor Lloyd C. Stark's Kansas City police plan, told "rural Democratic members of the legislature" their districts were against Pendergastism and gave Stark a boost for United States senator.

Stark defeated Hirth for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1936.

"Let the rural Democratic members of the legislature make no mistake," Hirth emphasized in a statement.

"The rural people have made up their minds to smash Pendergastism, and therefore these members must choose between being known as 'regular guys' among the well-groomed leaders of the machine or carrying out the wishes of their constituents.

Hirth said Stark's proposal to wrest control of the Kansas City police department from home rule was a "practical necessity."

Many View The Planting Of Trees

Nearly 35 adults and 4-H Club members attended the tree planting demonstration on the J. Walter Rissler farm in the Maplewood community Friday.

Black locust yearling seedlings were used in the demonstration. These seedlings were planted in a gully to control erosion and at the same time furnish a supply of post timber for the farm.

Before planting the trees, the planting site was prepared by sloping the sides of the gully so that the slope of the sides was approximately 45 to 50 per cent. After the sides of the gully were ployed in, they were thoroughly worked down with a smoothing harrow. The seedlings were planted in the gully at a distance of approximately six feet apart in staggered positions.

In order to help protect the young trees and to further prevent soil losses, three buck bush dams were planted in the gully. In the use of trees, Mr. Bowen of the Missouri Conservation Commission, pointed out to those in attendance that forest seedlings could be used for plantings as a windbreak, woodlot or erosion control in gullies.

Species used in Missouri include the Black Locust, Osage Orange, Shortleaf Pine, and Cottonwood. The advantage of using the seedlings developed in the nursery is the good root system that they have. Mr. Bowen pointed out that in planing these seedlings he holes should be dug deep enough so that the seedlings could be transplanted in the same depth that they grew in the nursery and that the soil must be thoroughly packed around the seedlings when planted. He also pointed out that it was important to protect the planting from livestock so as to give them all the advantages possible for growth.

Reveal Fortune In Old Currency

ST. LOUIS, April 1—(AP)—Old style currency totalling $103,000 was found Friday in the safe deposit box of Miss Louise E. Pim, 89-year-old spinster who died March 21 in a shabby house she rented for $32.50 a month.

Forty thousand dollars, also in the old large-size bills, was found hidden in her piano shortly after her death.

She was the last member of an old St. Louis family, and had lived alone for 10 years.
